THE BUDGET CONTROVERSY—It is unfortunate that the first trial of the new California budget system comes at a time when the budget itself is in violent controversy. That fact diverts to the system much indignation which ought, instead, to be directed to the use that has been made of it.

Even those who are most violently opposed to the present revolutionary budget should realize that the law has at least accomplished its principal purpose. It has brought the whole controversy, in detail, out in the open, in the presence of the whole legislature, with the governor's fiscal representative standing public interpellation, and with responsibility absolutely fixed.

* * *

If the budget is bad, this publicity and fixation of responsibility are even more important than if it were good. Also, the budget has conclusively related the questions of revenue and expenditure. No one, legislator or executive, would now dare propose any serious expenditures without, in the same act, proposing a way to raise the money.

These two things are what a budget system is for, and, no matter how bad the present budget may be (the writer is among those who think it extremely bad) it is at least submitted in such a way that neither its faults nor the responsibility for them can be concealed.

The abuses are not in the law authorizing the budget, but in the budget itself. Not even the helplessness of the legislature to remedy the evil is a conclusive objection. Taking it legislature after legislature, and administration after administration, far more financial crimes have been committed by legislatures than by governors. And the abdication of final decision to the governor is only doing by law what legislatures have hitherto done voluntarily.

The custom has been for the legislature, in its final days, intentionally to over-appropriate the treasury and leave it to the governor, by pocket vetoes, to balance revenues and expenses. Any governor, if he had chosen, could have crippled the public service under that system. It is nothing against the new system if the same thing is still possible under it. The only way to prevent such an abuse under any system is to have governors who will not do it. And the present system has, at least, the advantage of fixing the responsibility where the whole state can see it.

* * *

The features complained of in the budget itself are not produced by the law. They would have been possible under any law. The law does not say that the governor, by mere budgetary omission, shall extinguish statutory or constitutional departments without legislative action to that end. The law says the exact contrary. The abuse is in ignoring its obligations.

The law does not say that the humanitarian and regulatory functions of the state shall be crippled and its educational functions curtailed, in back-action "fulfillment" of a campaign pledge not to do these things. But the law does make it absolutely clear, if these things are done, who did them. It is still possible to injure the people, but it is no longer possible to fool them. The law does not say that if the corporation taxes are insufficient to operate the government, it shall cease to operate.

On the contrary, it expressly provides two different methods by which, in that case, the rest of the money is to be raised. It is not the remedy that is lacking, but the courage to use it.

Whether those with whom this budget is popular, or those with whom it is unpopular are the majority of all the people, there is no immediate way of telling. It is known to be unpopular with the majority of their representatives in the legislature. The full crystallization of popular sentiment may have to await the next tax collection, when the people, receiving less public service, and still finding their tax bills as high as ever or higher, will at last realize that the taxes about which all the fuss has been made are those collected from the public corporations.

* * *

But there is one slogan of the defenders of the budget which is almost universally popular. That is, "Separate the tax eaters from their jobs." The "job holder," in the abstract, has no friends. But who are these job holders, in the concrete?

For one thing, they are persons like the members of the State Board of Charities, the Immigration and Housing Commission, and the Industrial Welfare Commission, who work for nothing, in the pure spirit of public service. Also, they are persons like the inspectors of the Industrial Accident Commission, who see to it that machinery and building construction are made safe against the avoidable killing and maiming of people.

Some of them are members of the Railroad Commission, who check up the valuation, the accounts and the operations of the public service corporations, to protect the public against excessive charges. Others are workers of the State Board of Health, protecting the state against epidemics, whether from contagion or from tainted food and water. Still others are the field force of the Immigration and Housing Commission, whose work in improving the housing and labor conditions in California labor camps has been the chief protection of the state against the wave of I. W. W.-ism which overspread Washington and Oregon.

Worry Held Robertson Death Cause

BUSINESS STRAIN HEAVY

Widow States Contractor Not In Financial Difficulties

INQUEST FAILS TO BARE NEW DETAILS

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict Here After 15-Minute Session

Within barely 15 minutes after it convened here at 10 a. m. today—nearly 24 hours after J. G. Robertson, widely-known electrical contractor of this city, had sent a bullet crashing into his brain—a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death, self-inflicted and with suicidal intent.

The inquest developed nothing that was not already known. The testimony established merely the fact that the case was one of self-destruction. What caused Robertson to end his own life—this remained a mystery so far as the official inquisition of the jury was concerned.

Those closest to Robertson—and none of those was subjected to the ordeal of testifying at the inquest—were able to shed but little additional light on the question of motive.

The widow stated there was perhaps only one thing that could have caused him to take his own life and that was the mental strain resulting from the administration of his rapidly-growing business.

Not In Difficulties.

So far as Mrs. Robertson knew, she said, he was not in financial straits. She was positive that he had no creditors who were pressing him. He had always told her that his business was successful and profitable, she declared.

Bearing out her supposition that business worries might have been responsible, she said she noticed in her husband one instance of absent-mindedness last Wednesday when he forgot that he was to go to the station here to bid goodby to a sister who was leaving for the East.

"He had been working under high pressure for a great many years," Mrs. Robertson said. "The mental strain was too severe—that is the only reason I can offer in explanation of his act."

Ex-Partner Tells Views.

Robertson was not in financial difficulties, in the opinion of W. O. Packard, electrical inspector, who was with Robertson for many years prior to his appointment as inspector.

Packard was formerly a partner of Robertson and sold out to him about six years ago. He continued, however, to be identified with the business, as an employe.

"I talked with Robertson yesterday morning, just before he started on his death trip to the Santa Ana canyon," said Packard. "He was in good spirits and gave no indication that he contemplated taking his own life.

"I am positive that from a financial standpoint Robertson was stronger than when we were partners. His business had grown to large proportions. I had discussed his business affairs with him many times. In the discussions he always maintained that he was making money and that he was in easy circumstances.

Home Life Happy.

"I know that Robertson was happy in his home life, for our families visited each other a great deal.

"I can attribute his act to nothing but a weakened mental condition induced by strain and overwork."

The memorandum book found in his coat yesterday contained on one page a number of figures that totalled $32,807.26. Among the names listed were those of two local firms.

Investigations disclosed that he did not owe them the amounts set opposite their names. In fact he

Relatives Gather at Bedside of Actress As End Feared Near

MADAME SARAH BERNHARDT.

FEAR END NEAR FOR MADAME BERNHARDT

PARIS, March 24.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt is slowly sinking and it is feared the end is near.

Relatives and other members of the household were gathered at the bedside of Bernhardt this afternoon. Her doctors fear she will not live out the night. During the day the greatest actress became delirious and as those who loved her stood weeping nearby, they heard Bernhardt, perhaps for the last time, in the roles which brought the world to her feet.

In her delirium, the great actress imagined herself again on the stage. While her body was slowly perishing, her soul spoke. She recited, in the voice which Kings, prince and the people of the world had acclaimed, the dramatic roles of the days when she was the queen of the stage.

In addition to Bernhardt's regular physician, specialists were called and a consultation of six of the leading physicians of Paris was scheduled for six o'clock. It develops that one of Mme. Bernhardt's kidneys has been infected for the past thirty years. She is now 78 years old and with the existing complications, her condition is regarded as little short of desperate.

At five o'clock it was announced that the physicians had resorted to injections of camphor as an aid to the heart action. A half hour later Bernhardt was declared to have regained consciousness for a short time. Her son, Maurice, standing near by, she immediately recognized.

"I am very weak but I am not suffering. Do not worry," Bernhardt said to him.

Her secretary came from the room for a few moments. He said: "She is very bad, poor beloved Madam. I cannot say more."

Uraemic poisoning has steadily become worse since Thursday, it was learned. The physicians declare that unless the crisis terminates today the issue will be fatal.

TWO YOUTHS ACCUSED IN DEATH PLOT

Alleged Killing Said to Be Result of Boy's Admiration for Widow of Victim.

CHICAGO, March 24.—Two boys confessed today, authorities announced, to a plot to kill Michael McGinnis, a city fireman, in order that one youth might possess the fireman's wife and the other her sister.

The two women—Mrs. Anna Belle McGinnis, the widow, and Myna Piech, her sister, were accused of murder and the two lads—Francis Nee and Charles Shade—face charges of accessories to murder.

McGinnis was shot to death in his home March 13. At the inquest, Mrs. McGinnis declared her husband had attacked her and Miss Piech, coming to her defense, fired the fatal shot. Both were released but re-arrested today after the alleged confessions. Nee and Shade, police charge, were on friendly terms with the two women and were in the McGinnis home at the time of the killing.

STATE CONTROL BOARD LEADER TO RESIGN

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—Gilbert S. Daniels, chairman of the state board of control, announced today to newspaper men that he will resign his office. He will tender his formal resignation to the governor within a few days, he said.

Daniels plans to go to Europe July 1.

Daniels is a holdover member of the board of control, having been named by former Governor Stephens. That he is not in accord with George B. Radcliffe and Mrs. Nellie B. Pierce, other members of the board has been known for some time. Daniels refused to sign the executive budget and the legislature has been considering one which he previously prepared totalling a higher figure than the executive document.

Daniels stated that he is not certain that he is through with politics but declared he intended to remain in Europe until he feels the urge to return. He will be accompanied on the tour by Mrs. Daniels.

During the five years that Daniels has been in state politics he has served as director of the state motor vehicle department, state market director and later was named to the board of control.

JEROME HITS SYSTEM AS TO TAXES

Plan of Having His Office Collect Assessments Burden, Is Claim

Protesting against the dual duties of the county offices, which have heretofore collected Santa Ana city taxes and street assessments in addition to carrying out its regular county duties, W. C. Jerome, Orange county auditor, today questioned the right of the city council to saddle county offices with the collection of assessments for the proposed ornamental lighting system on Fourth and Fifth streets.

Jerome said he believed the law would support him in his contention that the county officers do not have to do this work.

"Organization of many street and sewer assessment districts in Santa Ana," explained Jerome, "has thrown a vast amount of work into the county offices. The present assessment for Fourth and Fifth street ornamental lighting has brought the question to a head in my mind.

"I am of the opinion that there exists a supreme court decision defining taxes and assessments which relieves the county offices of the task of collecting the city monies.

Tells Onerous Phase

"An especially unsatisfactory phase of our two-fold duties has been in the fact that no payment is made to the county offices for the work done. We can charge for the labor performed but this charge is automatically passed into the county salary fund, and cannot be used for the benefit of the offices.

"It amounts to the county doing city work without return."

Jerome asked A. P. Nelson, district attorney, to investigate the legality of his protest, and to ascertain whether the supreme court decision could be used as his authority in the matter.

Nelson said he was of the opinion that the present manner of handling the assessment work through the county auditor's office was discriminatory, and that he believed the office could be relieved of the work, unless some satisfactory method of payment was arranged that would return directly to the county officers engaged in its performance.

Gives Solution

"I believe," said Jerome, "that the work could be handled better and cheaper through the county collecting the assessments together with the taxes, but under present conditions it puts a burden upon the county officers without any allowance being made for the extra work.

This class of work is heavier, comparatively speaking, here than in any other county in the state, because of our rapidly growing cities. In the counties where the larger cities are situated they are either handled through charter provisions or do their own collecting. The smaller cities of the state are not improving at the same rate that they are in Orange county."

PIGGLY WIGGLY MAN HITS WALL STREET

(By United Press Leased Wire)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 24.—The next step of Clarence Saunders, grocery magnate and president of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc., will be to test the strength of Wall street.

"I want to establish a precedent in this country that others have rights besides Wall street," Saunders said today.

"The conduct of the "shorts" reminds me of a bunch of pigs. When they are trapped in a pen they begin rooting to crawl out.

"If necessary, I will carry this fight with speculators caught short on the market to the floor of the United States senate. There I hope to learn if the government is stronger than Wall street," Saunders said today, as he outlined his future fight against stock speculators.

TO CALL NEW SCHOOL BOND VOTE

MOVE TO WIN O. K. ON OLD ISSUE OFF

Education Board Decides to Re-Submit $150,000 Proposal

With word received today that attorneys for R. H. Moulton and company had refused to recommend the acceptance of the $150,000 bond issue of the Santa Ana grammar school district without a supreme court decision to back it up, announcement was made by F. L. Andrews, secretary of the board of education, that all efforts to validate the issue would be abandoned, and that the bonds would be again submitted to the voters of Santa Ana.

The election will be held April 18.

The history of the case up to the present is as follows:

The bonds, under which the board of education proposed to add schoolrooms to a number of grammar schools of the city and to repair other buildings, were carried in December by a vote of 1191 for to 473 against the bonds.

The Moulton company was the best bidder for the bonds.

Attorneys for the buyer recently reported that the bonds would not be accepted without a court decision.

The attorneys stated that the wording of the ballot brought up a serious legal doubt, in that in one instance the purpose for which the bond money was to be used was not specifically stated. This defect was pointed out to have been in the legal proceedings for which the attorney then acting for the board of education prepared the ballot.

Attorney Bishop was employed. Acting on the belief that a superior court decision would be sufficient, an action seeking the validation of the bonds was brought in the superior court of this county.

Yesterday Bishop received a letter from the attorneys in San Francisco saying that a supreme court decision would be necessary. Bishop informed the board of education that it would take seven months at least to get a supreme court decision.

The school authorities decided that it would be far better to submit the bonds again to a vote than it would be to wait. In fact, the delay of seven months would bring about a serious handicap in operating the schools next year, it was pointed out. It had been planned to have the improvements to be made under the issue completed by the time school opened in September. Moreover, it was possible that the decision might be unfavorable.

This morning, it was decided that steps should be taken at once to re-submit the bonding proposal. Bishop stated that the first resolution could be ready for passage at the meeting of the board of education next Wednesday. He was instructed to have the resolution ready at that time with the date of the election set at the earliest possible date. That date is April 18.

BLACKMAIL PLOT IN GIRL'S DEATH TOLD

(By United Press Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, March 24.—Assistant Attorney Pecora today called the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" and "Mr. Wilson" to his office to tell what they know about the death of Dorothy Keenan, "butterfly of Broadway."

The authorities are working on the theory that a plot existed to blackmail "Marshall" whose real name has never been revealed and who is reputed to be a millionaire. The Keenan girl was to have been used by the plotters, but, according to this theory, she refused to play her part. Thereupon the blackmallers chloroformed her.

"Marshall" and "Wilson" are the last men known to have seen the "butterfly" alive. They appeared before Pecora a few days ago and cleared themselves of suspicion. Meanwhile, however, the prosecutor has discovered new evidence and he believes if the millionaire will tell all he knows it will be easy to catch the murderers.

U. S. Plane Shatters Marks by 75 Mile Trip In 18 Minutes

WASHINGTON, March 24.—All airplane records were broken by the United States army air service when one of its machines established the record of 250 miles an hour, the war department officially announced today.

The record was established during a flight from Nogales, Ariz., to Fort Bliss, Texas. The plane, a D-H-4-B, was piloted by Major Leo Heffernan with Sergeant Jensen acting as observer.

The distance of 75 miles from Columbus, N. M., to Fort Bliss was negotiated in 18 minutes, an average speed of 250 miles an hour, the department stated.

DECISION ON SUGAR PRICE PLOT LOOMS

Dept. of Justice Inquiry Seeks to Determine Possibility of Federal Action.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The department of justice early next week is expected to reach a decision as to whether the federal government can prosecute speculators who are charged with gouging the American people out of $15,000,000 a month by boosting sugar prices.

A comprehensive investigation of manipulation on the sugar market during the last six weeks which have resulted in an increase of about 75 per cent in the price the housewife must pay is being made by the department, according to A. T. Seymour, acting attorney general. In its inquiry the justice department is being assisted by the department of commerce.

Pending the result of inquiries by the departments of justice and commerce, no investigation will be made by the federal trade commission.

GREAT ICE JAM SPREADS IOWA FLOOD PERIL

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 24.—Flood waters of the Missouri river menacing Sioux City, showed signs of receding today. The river's stage at 11:30 a. m. was 16.1 compared with 16.5 earlier in the day. The stream apparently was cutting new channels through lowlands, furnishing an outlet for the water dammed by a ten mile ice gorge near Sargents Bluff.

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 24.—Flood waters backed up from the Missouri river by a huge ice jam covered lowlands in Sioux City during the night.

Residents abandoned their homes in the early hours today, fleeing before the advancing waters. The stream continued to rise, backing up waters in the Floyd river, which flows into the Missouri. A rise of another foot will submerge nearly forty blocks in one residential district. The river rose two feet in the six hours ending at 7 a. m.

A sharp rise in temperature brought a new menace to villages and farms below the huge ice gorge, now extending ten miles down the Missouri. The ice by melting rapidly would release a great wall of water. Preparations were made to warn villages for fifty miles down the river when the ice jam goes out. Dwellers in the loklands were ready to flee to high ground.

5 WARRING INDIANS FLEE FROM CAPTORS

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SALT LAKE CITY, March 24.—Citizens posses today were reported penetrating deep into the Indian country beyond Blanding on the trail of the renegrade Piute Indian band which engaged the whites in battle in the Dark canyon region Thursday night.

Reports reaching here by courier were that a total of nine prisoners were captured by the whites and that five of these, including "Old Posey", supposed leader of the Piute warriors, had later broken away and escaped.

Reports here indicated the Indians were scattering into smaller bands which would mean that the chase would settle down to perhaps a long pursuit of the Piutes by the whites through the little known regions of Utah.

GERMANY HOLDS DICTATORS IN REVOLT PLOT

(By United Press Leased Wire)

BERLIN, March 24.—Leading members of the alleged revolutionary conspiracy recently broken up by the government was ordered indefinitely detained today while the lesser members were liberated.

Among those held are General Huger and Majors Schroeder and Smethlage, Professor Danicke, Erdmann and Ehrhost and Lieutenant Rossbach.

Premier Von Knilling of Bavaria in an interview today declared there was no chance of a revolutionary putsch succeeding against the central government of Germany so long as Berlin stands fast against the French.

"Bavaria completely agrees with the remainder of Germany" he said. "We oppose capitulation and wouldn't support any central government which advised capitulation. Since Chancellor Cuno and I are eager for settlement and realize that eventually negotiations must come, neither of us would consent to German humiliation or surrender.

"A successful revolution is only possible if the central government acceded to French dictation. Otherwise the idea of German unity prevails over the putsch idea. Most Bavarians believe that evacuation of the Ruhr must precede any negotiations."

FIGHT OUSTER SUIT.

Asserting that the court had no jurisdiction over the matter contained in the complaint, defendants in the suit of the Southern Pacific railroad against Alva Hargrove and others, today filed a demurrer in superior court. The original suit had claimed that Mr. and Mrs. Hargrave and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schneider had taken possession of certain right of way in Tustin, owned by the railroad, and had ejected the plaintiffs.

ONLY ONE "U" PLAN

All doubt as to the permanency of the union between the University of California and the Southern Branch in Los Angeles has been dispelled. This was the feeling which Orange county alumni of the state university had today following an address delivered here last night by Dr. Carroll Moore, director of the Southern branch. "Two state universities will not be maintained in this state," said Dr. Moore.

GRANTED DIVORCE.

When the defendant defaulted by failure to answer the suit, an interlocutory decree of divorce was granted to Ethel Loveridge, against her husband, Don Loveridge. The decree was entered today by Superior Judge R. Y. Williams. W. F. Menton was attorney for the plaintiff.

Robertson's Serious Accident Some Years Ago Recalled

J. G. Robertson, local electrical contractor, who committed suicide in Santa Ana canyon yesterday, was severely injured near Tustin five or six years ago, when a motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile at the junction of B street and the state highway to San Diego.

Severe arm and leg fractures resulted and for some time his life was despaired of.

His health was considerably impaired and friends say that his physical condition after the accident was not what it was before.

CLAIMS RULING FATAL TO L. A. WATER PLANT

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Engineer William Mulholland of the city water bureau, declared today that the ruling of Superior Judge Craig on water rates will reduce the city's income from that source from $4,000,000 to $600,000 yearly, making it nearly impossible to operate the water department.

The ruling was made in the case of the Los Angeles country club versus the city. The club asked that the rate of ten cents per hundred cubit feet charged the club for the sprinkling of its golf course, be reduced to two cents per hundred cubic feet. This was done by the court. The general rate of ten cents per cubic feet applies to all industries, commercial concerns and householders. The two cent rate applies to small farmers and was intended to encourage the growing of farm products.

"If the water bureau is compelled to serve water to golf courses at the combination irrigating and domestic rates, every householder that sprinkles his lawn is entitled to the same rate," Mulholland declared. "This would mean the great majority now paying the ten cent rate would have to be served at the two cent rate.

"As the water department is operated practically on a cost basis, it is readily seen what will happen to the department," Mulholland said.

SCOUTS DEDICATE MEMORIAL DRIVE

Silently, as Boy Scouts filled in the earth around a young oak, the words of Joyce Kilmer's "The Tree," recited by Ernest Crozier Phillips were spoken this afternoon as a part of the dedicatory ceremonies for memorial drive.

Gathered in the opening beneath the curve of a hill, with oaks and sycamores round about, the assemblage joined in singing "America." An invication by the Rev. William E. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of Santa Ana, was followed by an address by the Rev. P. F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congressional church, of Santa Ana, in behalf of the Boy Scouts, who as an organization have undertaken the care of the trees planted along the drive.

The response in behalf of the American Legion was by Major E. J. Marks, of Fullerton, appearing in uniform.

The beautiful dedicatory poem by Mrs. Robert Northcross was read, followed by the planting of the oak, the recital of "The Tree," a salute to the flag and taps. William McKay presided.

LIQUOR SHIP OWNER MAKES BOLD ESCAPE

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—K. Nagai, owner of the fishing boat captured at Long Beach Thursday morning as an alleged rum ring was unloading a cargo of high grade liquor for the Hollywood film colony, escaped from prohibition officers early today after a spectacular gun battle on a San Pedro car.

Officers had had Nagai at San Pedro for an investigation and were bringing him, in company with four other alleged Volstead law violators, to Los Angeles on an interurban car.

As the car slowed down Nagai suddenly made a rush for liberty. He broke the hold of his guards, and ran for the exit of the car. The officers immediately drew their guns and began firing. The motorman brought the car to a violent stop, and panic stricken passengers huddled below their seats trying to escape the line of fire. Nagai swung off the car and rapidly disappeared into the darkness.

BUSINESS WORRIES SEEN IN SUICIDE

virtually owed nothing to the two firms. The investigation disposed of the possible theory that the list may have represented liabilities.

The book was one which he used in making estimates on electrical work.

WIDOW CERTAIN WORRY CAUSE OF SUICIDE

Whether Mrs. J. G. Robertson and her son, Orlyn, will continue the business of the J. G. Robertson Electric company, has not been decided, Mrs. Robertson stated today.

Mrs. Robertson declared that she know of no reason why her husband should have taken his own life, except worry and mental strain incident to the volume of business he was doing in his enterprise.

"He was a good husband and father," said Mrs. Robertson. "Our home relations were very harmonious and pleasant."

He was not involved financially, so far as his widow was aware.

Sure Finances Sound.

"Mr. Robertson and I frequently talked over business affairs, and he always told me that the operations of the store and his contracting business were successful and profitable. I am positive that he had no creditors who were pressing him.

"He had been working under high pressure for a great many years. The mental strain was too severe—that is the only reason I can offer in explanation of his act.

"Always of a jovial and happy disposition, my husband never intimated or suggested the possibility of self-destruction. Whenever he read or heard of another committing suicide, he would say that he could not understand the condition of mind of a man who would destroy his own life.

Complains of Fatigue.

"Recently he had complained considerably of being tired, and when he would come home and seat himself he appeared to be very much exhausted.

"Until Wednesday, I never had noticed anything in his actions that caused me to worry. He had arranged to be at the station to bid goodby to a sister who was returning to her Eastern home. He failed to keep the appointment. When he returned home I asked him the reason. He replied that he had forgotten that he had a sister leaving.

"This worried me, for I realized that the business strain was affecting his mind."

A team has been picked. Here is the lineup: Corrine Crawford, p; Zola Powelson, c; Ruth Graves, ss; Doris Bowen, 1b; Lulu Paradee, 2b; Ruby Bush, 3b; Mildren Bowen, lf; Ola Strague, rf; Doris Haag, cf. Others who have signed up for the team are Pearl Camblin, Mildred White, Bernice Bull, Alla Markall, Jennie Wilde, Viola Slaughter, Edith Carroll, Edna Ward, Mable Christensen.

MISSIONARY FOLK PLAN ANNUAL MEET

With the convening, Thursday, at the Congregational church here, of the Federated Missionary societies of the city, an interesting program will be presented in both morning and afternoon hours.

The two sessions will be divided by a social hour at noon when a pot-luck luncheon will be enjoyed in the basement dining room of the church.

LADS SENTENCED.

Surrounded by ten sons and daughters, and two other small children whom he supports, D. A. Sarando, 35, today heard Juvenile Judge R. Y. Williams send two of the children to the Preston School of Industry at Ione, for their connection with recent thefts at Anaheim. Victor and Rodolph, 16 and 17, confessed to have stolen automobile accessories from automobiles in Anaheim, to have cut open a physicians case, and to have stolen hypodermic needles and a quantity of morphine and cocaine. They were sentenced to Preston.

CHICKEN PROBLEM IS SERIOUS ONE FOR RICH SLEEPERS

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—"The roosters crow all night and cackle all day. I mean, the hens cackle all night and crow all day. That is, the hens crow all night and the roosters—oh, anyway you know what I mean, and it's awful! Perfectly terrible!

"When I have over-night guests I'm just as apt as not to find them wandering about the house at 4 in the morning. Ask them why and they'll reply—'Chickens; can't sleep'."

Unless the city council does something to solve the much-mooted chicken problem the fashionable Wilshire district is going to lose an old resident, declared Mrs. Eva Cramer Bresler, 115 South Normandie avenue.

"No other city permits chickens within its limits," said Mrs. Bresler who has lived in most of the larger cities of this country and Europe. "The city councilmen say that all they can do is to zone them and then they don't zone them.

"Councilmen should be made to realize that there are more persons here who prefer uninterrupted sleep than there are of those who choose chickens and wakefulness."

JURY CONDUCTS BRIEF PROBE INTO DEATH

A revolver wound in the head, self-inflicted with suicidal intent, caused the death of James G. Robertson, prominent electrical contractor here, in Santa Ana canyon, about 10:30 a. m. yesterday, a coroner's jury, which held an inquest over the body at Smith and Tuthill's funeral chapel at 10 a. m. today, decided.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Smith and Tuthill chapel. The Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Briefly, without shedding additional light on the tragic affair, four witnesses testified as to the suicide.

M. K. Beatty, an employe of the Robertson Electric company, identified the body at the funeral parlor as that of his employer.

Tells Hearing Death News

D. P. Lytle, employed on a Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company project in the canyon, saw Robertson, standing beside the upraised hood of the automobile while he drove on the death journey, about 10 a. m., he said. About 10:30 a. m. C. M. Burbank ran toward him and told him that Robertson had shot himself.

Sheriff Sam Jernigan and Deputy Herman Zabel testified to being called to the canyon, where they found the body, in a sitting position, at the edge of the sluiceway.

The revolver, .38 caliber, commonly known as a "suicide type," was lying between the dead man's feet, where it had slipped from his hand, Zabel testified.

One Shell Exploded

The weapon was fully loaded, with the exception of the one shell which was exploded, and which had caused a fatal wound behind Robertson's right temple.

The entire inquisition occupied less than 15 minutes, including the time required by the jury for deliberation.

Clinton Imes was foreman of the jury, which consisted of T. B. Cone, H. W. McKague, S. A. Sheeley, W. R. Harris and N. I. Rice.

They are also the agents of the Industrial Welfare Commission who have cleaned up the canneries of California, stabilized labor conditions in them, and have seen to it generally that the protection to women and children provided by California law has been an operative reality and not a mere paper precept. They are the persons who have administered the system under which California stands in the front rank of the world in the war against tuberculosis. And they are teachers in the teachers' colleges, training the teachers for our common schools.

When the abstract bugaboo "job holder" becomes identified as these very real, very useful, very popular, hard working and under-paid public servants, the idea of "separating the job holders from the public crib" does not seem so enticing, after all.

HE WAS NOT SEASICK SO WHY SHOULD PET BEAR BE SO UNHAPPY

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Edward Kenneth Sanborn jr., aged twenty-three months, son of a Honolulu automobile dealer, was astonished, then aggrieved when he saw his pet bear, "Terry," rolling in agony from seasickness on the way over from the islands.

Edward Kenneth couldn't understand seasickness, having cavorted in the surf since being able to toddle. The ship doctor attended the bear's ills, but Edward Kenneth was discovered a few minutes later administering ice cream with a large spoon.

TWO ANIMALS HAVE LONG BEEN FRIENDS

NEW YORK, March 23.—Bellevue hospital has two close friends of the animal kingdom in Darn, the old horse who pulls the mortuary wagon, and Teddy, the hospital watchdog, both chums for fifteen years. Darn, now 18 years old, is one of those few horses still living which can rightfully boast a glorious past in the shafts of the almost forgotten horse-drawn ambulance. When he entered the service of Bellevue in 1907 he was one of the most recalcitrant, trace-kicking "critters" ever placed in haness. His temperamental nature was combated for two months by five of the hospital's most able and most seasoned drivers, but with no success. He still continued to bite, he still continued to paw, he still continued to kick.

The love of Fred W. Winslow for his fellowman blooms again in the memorial plant of wistaria vine and flowering peach that has attracted attention in the west walk of Birch park. Shaped in semblance of an umbrella, the green leaves and twining limbs of the vine end in bright colored clusters of the wistaria bloom. It was planted by the Japanese of Santa Ana in memory of Fred W. Winslow. Winslow, who died a few years ago, was with the Orange County Trust and Savings bank and handled considerable of the banking business of Japanese. His kindly manner, and fair treatment of all with whom he did business, won them to him and enslaved the Japanese, who have expressed that adoration through their usual beautiful medium, the wistaria vine.

"THE CALL OF THE NORTH" AT PRINCESS TONIGHT

One of the greatest monopolies in history was the Hudson's Bay company which maintained its hold for more than 200 years over the greater part of what is now Canada. Its factors held the power of life or death over those who lived within the radius of its trading posts. This monopoly came to an end in 1870 when the company surrendered its charter in exchange for certain properties.

This dramatic state of affairs forms a basis for "The Call of the North," Jack Holt's starring vehicle, which will be shown at the Princess theater tonight.

There were, it seems, certain factors who did not give up their autocratic powers—a state of affairs not condoned by the Hudson's Bay House, in London, but which went on because of the remote location of such posts. It was with this material that Stewart Edward White built his novel "Conjurer's House," from which the picture was adapted by Jack Cunningham. There was also a stage play by George Broadhurst which had wide success. A fine cast includes Madge Bellamy as the heroine, playing opposite the star, Noah Beery, Francis McDonald, Edward Martindel, Helen Ferguson and Jack Herbert. Joseph Henabery directed.

USES FIVE MAKE-UPS IN ONE DAY

Five different make-ups in one day—and he isn't a "character" actor, either.

But Richard Dix, in the name part of Goldwyn's "The Christian," now showing at the Temple theater had a role of intense emotions—at one time bowed by the grief and injustice of the world, his face drawn by fasting and long prayer; another day standing erect and transfigured by his love for Glory Quayle, and his resolve to discard his vows and go to her; at still another moment glorified by a momentary fever of religious ecstacy.

The make-up for each of these moods had to be different in ways that would seem minor to the layman, but which are very important to the characterization. When production arrangements required in one day work in five different sequences of the story, it meant that three hours or more of Dix's time was consumed in the painstaking work of facial make-up.

"WHILE JUSTICE WAITS" AT YOST TOMORROW

A welcome screen visitor tomorrow will be Dustin Farnum. He is to appear at the Yost theater in his latest picture, entitled "While Justice Waits," based on a story by Charles A. and Don Short and dealing with life in a small western town. Pretty Irene Rich is his leading woman.

Dustin Farnum, gifted with fine histrionic talents, is an actor of the stalwart, straight-from-the-shoulder sort, whose presence appeals to an audience the moment he appears. His record on the screen, and on the stage prior to entering pictures, is an enviable one.

In "While Justice Waits," the star enacts the role of a singularly attractive outlaw—in brief, an outlaw who is not a criminal, but a man who joins the band to seek a man who stole his wife. And through the tale runs a romance as delightful as the plot is thrilling. There is some delicious comedy in the picture.

"THE CROW'S NEST" AT PRINCESS TOMORROW.

For audiences who enjoy a fast picture, "The Crow's Nest," coming to the Princess tomorrow and Monday, and starring Jack Hoxie, the screen's greatest exponent of the real west, should prove a knock-out and satisfy to the seventy-seventh degree.

This picture starts off with a bang and keeps on banging to the last foot of the film, the action quickening with each reel and the introduction of many thrills has the effect of making this picture one that will stand head and shoulders above any former production in which Hoxie has starred.

A novel feature in "The Crow's Nest" is the introduction of the "Injun" telegraph, a method used for signaling messages by the Yaqui Indians by means of their tom-toms.

JACK HOLT FILM AT WEST END TOMORROW.

Dignity upset is the greatest producer of laughs. For example, think of the everyday slip of the man on the banana peel or the dignified old gentleman, the top hat, the snowball and the small boy.

This fall of dignity accounts for several humorous situations in "Making a Man," a picture starring Jack Holt which will be displayed at the West End theater for five days beginning tomorrow.

In the role of Horace G. Winsby, Holt is represented as a wealthy, snobbish and ultra-dignified man; one who looks upon himself as a sort of monarch and regards his neighbors as beneath his notice. Naturally, such a man is immensely unpopular.

Perhaps the most laughable situation in "Making a Man" is the occasion of Mr. Winsby's plunge into a mudhole. As he leaves his home in the little town of San Geronimo, Cal., to go to his office, he tells his chaffeur that he will drive the car. But the machine stalls in the center of a huge mudhole. His neighbors gather around, but because Winsby is so unpopular, they refuse to aid him. Seeing some stones sticking above the surface of the puddle, Winsby thinks he has discovered a way to reach dry land. He makes the attempt, the stone rolls over and squash!—Winsby sits down with a plump in the center of the puddle.

"A BLIND BARGAIN" AT YOST TUESDAY.

A feature picture unique in its power to make creepy sensations of horror and fascination run up and down one's spine is scheduled for appearance at the Yost theater on Tuesday night. It is a new Goldwyn melodrama, "A Blind Bargain," founded upon a story by Barry Pain called "The Octave of Claudius," a pseudo-scientific story of a half-mad surgeon who believed he could prove the truth of evolution by transforming man back into his early simian characteristics through transferring into his body the glands of monkeys. He induces a struggling young author, whose mother faces death for want of the proper medical attention, to agree to submit himself to be experimented upon by the doctor in return for the money and care that shall restore his mother to health.

Unable to buy his release from his bargain, after falling in love and becoming engaged to the daughter of the publisher who accepted his book, the writer is seized by the surgeon and bound to the operating table. As the surgeon enters his private dungeon to get a monkey, he is crushed to death by one of the human wrecks, results of previous experiments, imprisoned there and the writer is released by the surgeon's wife and the hunchback who was also one of the doctor's victims.

The roles of the doctor and of the hunchback are acted by Lon Chaney. In the cast are Jacqueline Logan, former "Follies" beauty; Raymond McKee, Virginia True Boardman, Fontaine LaRue, Aggie Herring and Virginia Madison.

"BROKEN CHAINS" AT YOST FRIDAY

Can a born coward change his nature and become a hero, if not unafraid at least unfaltering?

Winifred Kimball believes he can. She embodied her belief in the form of a motion picture scenario and entered it in the Chicago Daily News $30,000 scenario contest. She told her stoy so well that the famous judges gave her entry the first prize of $10,000, picking it out of the 32,000 manuscirpts submitted.

TWO FACTIONS ARE READY FOR BATTLE FOR SCHOOL PLACE

FULLERTON, March 24.—Two strong factions of northern Orange county voters stood ready today to go to the bat for their respective candidates for the position on the Fullerton union high school board of trustees which will be filled by the election March 30.

An indication that the campaign has become considerably more intense was seen in the fact that newspapers received here today from Placentia and Brea and other places carry political stories boosting the candidacy of W. J. Travers, who is a candidate for re-election.

Travers is opposed by G. W. Finch of Fullerton who was injected into the race at the last moment by friends who desired him to give up his place on the grammar school board and seek the place on the high school board.

Advocates of Travers maintain that Fullerton is not only trying to assume all the credit and publicity which goes with the location of the high school plant but also would usurp the complete direction of the institution. Finch backers declare that Fullerton has no direct representative on the high school board and that the present high school board is "under the thumb" of the principal of the school and junior college, Louis Plummer, the man under fire, has made no statement as yet in defense of his administration.

The Finch camp completed plans for an active campaign at a meeting Thursday night and will begin the drive for votes Monday morning. Travers adherents have begun to round up the vote in support of the present board.

It promises to be one of the most intensive school board fights ever in northern Orange county.

ICE BOX SAFE IS BEREFT OF FUNDS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 24.—Thieves last night opened a window in the rear of the Rock Bottom store on Main street, entered, and made way with $850 in "cold" cash and checks which the proprietors of the Rock Bottom store and Schneider's market, which adjoins, had left there. The theft was discovered this morning.

Chief of Police Jack Tinsley is of the opinion that the money was taken by a person acquainted with the business habits of the proprietors.

PROMINENT SINGERS ARE HEARD AT BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, March 24—Mr. and Mrs. Roi Clarkson Colman had an impromptu concert at their studio one day last week, given by Miss Alice Lohr, soprano, Carl Gantvoort, baritone and Maestro William Tyroler, pianist, late of the Metropolitan Opera company, New York, who drove down from Los Angeles.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Harriet Higbee, Miss Zora Anderson and Mr. S. J. Moon.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Chalmers and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ridgley were also guests of the Colmans.

Mr. Gantvoort began his career as a violinist, making his first public appearance at the age of twelve.

He has studied in Paris, London and Berlin and made his concert debut at Bechstein Hall, Berlin.

Returning to the United States, he was engaged by Henry Savage for the role of the "American Consul" in Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" which part, it is said, he "made."

He has sung under the direction of Reginald de Koven and is now under the management of L. E. Behymer.

Mr. Gantvoort is giving a concert at the Santa Ana Ebell Club, Monday, March 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Colman have rented their two small cottages and are living in the new studio which they built a short time ago.

Wm. Jennings Bryan's Weekly Bible Talk

Today, with Easter near, we deal with Christ's resurrection.

Did He really break the bonds of the tomb and rise, bodily, from the grave?

Some who call themselves Christians go so far as to declare that the resurrection of Christ is immaterial to Christianity and, having branded it as immaterial, discard it as a myth.

This rejection is not made on the ground that Christ's resurrection was impossible—this conclusion being reached by applying to the miracle of the resurrection the theory that all miracles are impossible.

As long as one believes the miracle impossible, no amount of argument or evidence will have any weight with him.

The easiest way to silence one who announces his unwillingness to accept as true anything that he can not understand is to show him that he does, as a matter of fact, accept as true many things that he does not understand, and is therefore inconsistent in applying to religion a rule which he does not apply to his daily life.

Every Day Mysteries

He does not understand the mystery of life; life is just as much a systery today as it was at the dawn of creation, and yet he lives. One does not refuse to live merely because that invisible, eternal thing which we call life eludes the understanding and can not be discerned by our senses or analyzed by our minds.

Likewise, we cannot understand the mystery wrapped up in the food we eat, and yet we eat. Mystery does not bother us in the dining room; it is only in the church that it is made use of as an excuse for skepticism.

Every line of doubt runs back to the question of creation.

If God stands back of the beginning and is responsible for us and for all the objects, animate and inanimate, with which we deal, then that God is infinite in power, wisdom and love. Such a God can do whatever He likes with His own handiwork.

God's Limitless Power

If God created all things, He can control all things and make them to do His will.

If He is the author of what we call the "laws of nature." He can suspend them if He so wills, or He may do what even man can do, to a limited extent, namely, exercise a power that neutralizes, for the time being, and for a particular purpose, the action of so-called natural laws.

Man can, by closing his eyes, shut out the light that would otherwise illuminate his way. God may even work by laws that man has not yet discovered and may never discover.

To doubt God's power to do anything that He wishes to do is to doubt the existence of an Infinite God, for a God who could not do anything that man cannot understand would not be a God at all; he would be no more than a man.

The Greatest Peril to Faith

The real question that bothers those who dispute the possibility of a miracle is "Would God want to perform a miracle?"

This question they decide in the negative, although, in doing so, they have to assume that they can decide without possibility of mistake what God would or would not do.

In deciding that God would not (and, therefore, did not) perform a miracle, they must have some standard which they substitute for the Bible. In this lies the greatest peril to faith.

Whenever one, measuring the Bible by some other standard, discards a vital part of God's Word, the same logic leads him to discard all other parts inconsistent with the standard which he has adopted. In denying the infallibility of the Bible, he asserts the infallibility of his own judgment as compared with the Bible—at least, he relies upon his own judgment rather than upon the authority of the Bible, or upon authority which he prefers to the Bible.

Paul's Answer

Paul answers those who argue that the resurrection is immaterial.

"But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen: and if Christ be not risen, then is our preavhing vain, and your faith is also vain."

Paul also inscribes the effect that rejection of the resurrection has on man's philosophy of life:

"If the dead rise not, let us eat and drink; for tomorrow we die."

If Christ did not rise from the dead, then all the Bible records in regard to Christ's appearance to His disciples and others after death is untrue, and if untrue, the commission which He gave to His disciples in the concluding verses of the last chapter of Matthew, to teach all nations, is fiction.

The resurrection, therefore, becomes a vital principle of the Christian faith. Our Easter text is one of the corroborative passages, and not only adds confirmation to the other reports, but presents a beautiful lesson in itself.

How natural the account seems, and how convincing in its accuracy! The skeptics of the day ask no new question: they simply repeat the question asked even then by those who were near to Christ.

It is fortunate that the questions were asked then so that they could be answered then. They were answered and the answers were convincing. Christ appeared so frequently, and to so many, that the fact of His resurrection became the basis of the gospel as it was preached from that day on, and the basis of the church was built upon His gospel.

The Famous Expression

Christ rebuked His companions: O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken: ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?" Then, "beginning at Moses and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself."

They were so drawn to Him that they constrained Him to stop with them. While He sat at meat with them their eyes were opened and they knew Him; and He vanished out of their sight. Then it was that they uttered that striking and oft-quoted expression: "Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?"

The Christian who accepts the Bible as God's revealed will accept as true the account that Luke gives of the walk of Emmaus. It fits into the account given of other appearances and is in harmony with other proof.

There is no basis upon which one can reject this lesson that will not equally justify the rejection of every other miracle and of everything else that is supernatural.

They all go together; they stand or fall by the same logic. They are accepted or rejected according to the standard which one adopts as authoritative.

The Proof of Feeling

But there is confirmation that the rationalist cannot explain or refute.

"Did not our heart burn within us, while he walked with us by the way?" This sentence introduces a kind of proof that is not dependent upon the veracity of Luke.

The heart is just as real a part of man as the brain; feeling is just as real as reason and, of the two, has more influence over man's conduct.

Our courts recognize this, however much skeptics may scoff at it. Passion can overthrow the reason and, therefore, allowance is made for acts that are the result of passion.

Feeling leads the reason astray and, therefore, a judge is not permitted to preside at a case where his sympathies are known to be on one side, as in the case of the trial of his own child. It is useless to insist that he will be just: an unconscious bias of which one is conscious, and no rectitude of purpose can guard against it.

The Response of Our Hearts

The proof furnished by the heart is furnished today. We are not dependent upon what people felt nineteen hundred years ago; we can feel now.

Our hearts are stirred today by the words and deeds of Christ: why should we doubt that the hearts of His disciples and immediate followers were stirred.

The response that our own hearts give to His call makes it easy to believe that He rose from the dead and appeared in the flesh to those who, according to the Bible record, saw Him after His resurrection.

It is the fact of Christ—a fact that we feel and which we know because we feel it—that makes us believe that He was the Christ, conceived of the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary, a Worker of miracles—our crucified and risen Lord.

Table Appointments At Dinner Party Are Suggestive of Easter

Among last night's delightful social events was the dinner party given at the C. F. Heil home, 2015 North Broadway, with Mr. and Mrs. Heil and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Metzgar entertaining.

The Easter motif predominated and a vernal effect was achieved throughout the rooms by the use of quantities of spring flowers with yellow the predominating color. The attractive table decorations were also in Easter effect and a great basket filled with tulips, daffodils and kindred blossome formed a low mound of beauty in the center.

Chocolate eggs bearing the names of the guests served as unique place cards indicating covers placed for Mr. and Mrs. Metzgar and Mr. and Mrs. Heil, the hosts, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Crookshank, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Northcross, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Deimling, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Liebig, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. Swales and Mr. and Mrs. Amos Cox.

Following the dinner, the evening was delightfully spent with music and a series of entertaining games.

Ladies' Aid Society

Business affairs of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church will be administered throughout the coming year by a staff of officers elected at a recent interesting meeting in the church parlors when Mrs. G. B. Darnell was named president.

Assisting Mrs. Darnell will be Mrs. J. R. Goodwin, first vice-president; Mrs. Roy Johnson, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Baird, secretary, and Mrs. Cynthia Davis, treasurer. Members elected to serve on the board with the section leaders were Mrs. F. Bomboy, Mrs. J. M. Youell, Mrs. William E. Roberts and Mrs. F. D. Plavan.

Mrs. D. A. Bear gave a very interesting report of the Federated Aid meeting held recently in Long Beach. Mrs. Bear stated that the speakers at the conference stressed the importance of the work of the Aid society to the church and the community and that church members should put church before clubs.

Miss Edith Patton, of the Community hospital requested the society to assist in hospital mending. Decision was reached to hold an all-day meeting in April for that purpose.

Reports from various committees were given, showing the society to be in a flourishing condition and with much work accomplished during the year. The session closed with a social hour during which light refreshments were served by a hostess committee.

Smartly Planned Was Bridge Event and Surprise Shower

Miss Gladys Burns whose betrothal to Frank C. Arnim of Orange was announced early in February, was charmingly honored by a group of friends who yesterday responded to a bridge tea invitation extended by Mrs. Alfred J. Ralph, with Miss Burns as the incentive.

The prety Ralph home at 309 East Walnut street, was flower decked for the event, the floral scheme of the rooms varying from pink gladiolas to renunculus and daffodils. Bridge offered its diversions and when the series of games were concluded, delightful prizes, all imported, were bestowed. Mrs. Burr Shafer, scoring high, received a set of Philippine nut baskets while desk articles of inkstand and penholder in the new Spanish ware were bestowed on Miss Effie Wylie, holding second high score. Miss Marjorie Ellis was consoled with a dainty French flower basket and while gift awards were being made, Miss Burns was included among the fortunate ones, for a tea wagon, heaped with gifts was placed before her.

A highly decorative effect was given by the French telephone doll which surmounted the pile of gifts. Arrayed in white taffeta and with the traditional veil, orange blossoms and shower boquet, the pretty and serviceable little creature was Mrs. Ralph's gift to Miss Burns who found that the taffeta skirts, later to conceal a telephone, were yesterday concealing articles in silver, crystal and hand-painted china.

Larger gifts varying from linens to articles for kitchen equipment, were arranged on the lower tray of the tea wagon. While all were admiring the lovely articles, Mrs. Ralph arranged the card tables with dainty linens and French boquets in ornamental baskets tied with orchid and green tulle for the serving of a menu of pressed chicken, cheese straws and salad followed by the sweets course whose ices were individual flowers in the colors used in the French boquets. Those served Miss Burns, were, appropriately enough, a bride and groom. Nuts and confections in orchid baskets and delicious "petit-fcurs" iced in nile green with orchid posies, completed the sweets course.

Greeting Miss Burns and her hostess, Mrs. Ralph were Mesdames George Wright, Beverly Hills; Reginald Chambers, Los Angeles; Joseph P. Rowley, Orange; Blaine Gibson, C. L. Sutherland, Anaheim, and John E. Doty, Fullerton.

From this city were Mesdames Elmer Burns, Jules Hilton, Herbert Wagner, Julian Mathewz, Clarence McClintock, William Beach, Peter E. Fluor, Burr Shafer and the Misses Roberta Dawes, Effie Wylie, Vivian Newman, Marjorie Warner, Virginia Metzgar, Gertrude Montgomer., Louise Montgomery, Marjorie Ellis, Elsie Fluor, Lydia Fisher and Marie Golden.

SUICIDES SAID TO SUFFER FOR CRIME

NEW YORK, March 23.—"The suffering of suicides in the next world is so severe, despite the fact that there is no such thing there as punishment as it is understood in this world, that no persons would kill themselves if they could first look into the future," says the Rev. Vale Owen, the English clergyman who is expounding the hereafter as revealed to him. He said his writing had been supplemented by visits he had paid to the various spheres of heaven.

His views on suicides were offered after he had been questioned by a woman at the conclusion of an address, and were coupled with the information that there is no hell as it has been popularly pictured. Wrong based on cruelty, such as selfishness or the infliction of suffering here is expiated in the next life by a long period of spiritual suffering much greater than would be experienced in hell, he said, and the suffering of the suicide is great because it is a deliberate interference with the plan of God and therefore a great sin.

Some of the things Rev. Owen found in the next world, he confessed, were inexplicable to him. He said he found there children apparently alone and friendless and suffering, and it puzzled and perplexed him because most children were happy. According to the speaker dwellers in the next world, apparently approved of the killing of animals in this world, particularly for food, giving as their reason that it were better the animals died quickly with a minimum of pain than that they ended their lives in disease. Animals may also go to heaven, he said and he found there dogs and horses and other animals, drawing wagons and playing as contentedly as a kitten in a catnip bed.

There is much to do in heaven the speaker said, for the spirits devote themselves to study that they may inspire the discovery of beings on the earth. He described a city in the fifth sphere where there were universities for the study of light, color and music. In the color studies each large hall was devoted to one primary color, and around it were little halls where the tints of that color were studied. It was impossible to gather together all the colors in this sphere, he said for the dynamic force from them would be too great, and that was a task for those of a higher sphere.

Carl Cantvoort To Be Attraction At Ebell Afternoon

Including songs and arias from Italian, French and German song literature in the original tongue as well as opera and oratorio, Carl Gantvoort, opera and concert baritone, has announced his program for the recital which he will present Monday at the Temple theater as the fourth event of the Ebell yearly program.

The Ebell society is presenting Mr. Gantvoort by arrangement with L. E. Behymer, Los Angeles impresario, and probably has never had the honor of entertaining a greater or more popular singer. It was not as a singer however, that Mr. Gantvoort began his career, for it was at the tender age of twelve that he made his first public appearance as a violinist.

However, his golden voice attracted the attention of musicians and while still a youth he began to study under an eminent vocal teacher of the Cincinnati College of Music, later entering Cincinnati University.

He continued his musical studies abroad making his concert debut in Berlin, that center of musicians and music lovers. Returning to America he took part in the original production of "Madame Butterfly" and followed that success by others equally great in "The Girl of the Golden West," "Robin Hood," "The Geisha" and "Paoletta" in addition to many light operas, music festivals and symphony orchestras of the country.

His recital tours are among the most interesting of his appearances and at present he is in Los Angeles under the management of Mr. Behymer where he has scored a distinct success as soloist with the Oratorio society upon various occasions.

The program to be presented before Ebell members Monday afternoon following the business session at 2:30 will be with William Tyroler at the piano and will be in four groups.

The first group will offer "Creation's Hymn," Beethoven; "I Attempt From Love's Sickness," Purcell; "Sapphische Ode," Brahms, and "Adamastor Roi des Vagues" (L'Africaine), Meyerbeer.

In the second group will be "Le Vent," Charles Rene; "Infidelite," Reynaldo Hahn, and "Ogier le Danois," Augusta Holmes.

"O Golden Sun," Grace Freebey; "Night in the Desert," Gertrude Ross; "Memories," Charles Cadman, and "Nature's Love," Van der Stucken, featured in the third group will be followed by "The Pauper's Drive," Sidney Homer; "Thursday," Molloy; "Golden Crown," Graves-H. L. Gantvoort, and "Roadways," John Densmore, in bringing the program to a conclusion.

STATE SOLONS TO VISIT OLD GOLD CAMPS

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SACRAMENTO, March 24.—California legislators left the capitol this morning on another week-end junketing trip, guests of the Sierras counties on a tour of the mother lode highway and the interesting scenes along its course.

The lawmakers are being transported in machines furnished by residents of the towns along the highway which it is proposed to improve with a $2,000,000 appropriation sought from the legislature. The trip will take the party through old towns made famous by Bret Harte and Mark Twain. Stops will be made at famous gold mines along the route. The trip will include a stop at Jackson, scene of the memorable Argonaut mine district.

Close of the third week of the after-recess session of the legislature finds both houses well advanced in the business of disposing of the bills which face them. The senate has passed 112 measures, which is equal to the number passed at the same date of the 1921 legislature. The assembly has not speeded up the program as much as has the senate, only 86 measures having been so far passed in the lower house.

Twelve bills have been passed in both houses and been sent to the governor for his signature. With the exception of a few emergency measures, the executive has not yet acted on any of the number.

Pretty Surprise Arranged to Honor Popular Young Matron

Delightfully surprising her cousin, Mrs. E. F. Adams, Miss Berenice Hays entertained yesterday at her home, 1740 North Baker street, where she was assisted in dispensing hospitality by her mother, Mrs. Bruce Hays and her aunt, Mrs. J. P. Graham.

The afternoon was devoted to music and conversation and at a certain point in the program the cunning little two-year old son of the honored guest, Master James Adams, entered drawing a small wagon. This was garlanded in pink and surmounting the interesting appearing freight with which it was laden, was a tall and serious stork holding the pink ribbon in his bill.

Master James took the wagon to his mother as he had been directed, and Mrs. Adams discovered that the packages were filled with charming gifts designed for a layette from her assembled friends.

Miss Hays used a profusion of sweet peas in her decorations, thus emphasizing the color scheme of pink and white. At the tea hour she served delicious cake with pineapple ice.

Guests at the pleasant affair in addition to Mrs. Adams, the honoree, Mrs. Hays and Mrs. Graham, assistants to the hostess, were Mesdames A. S. Adams, Oliver Dunkin, M. A. Legg, G. P. Campbell, D. H. Dunkin, Roy Cavett, E. F. Wickersheim, Ernest Sawyer, W. M. Kauffman, M. E. Files, Clayton Kauffman, J. J. Williams and Master James Adams.

POET'S RELATIVE IN DIVORCE CASE

MACON, Ga., March 23.—Sidney Lanier III, relative of the famous Southern Civil War poet and scion of one of Georgia's oldest families, faced another crisis in his matrimonia career today.

Following his failure to pay the first installment of the $40 a month alimony awarded Mrs. Peggy Lewis Lanier, his girl bride of a day, by Judge H. A. Matthews here, Lanier today faced the prospect of going to jail on a contempt of court charge.

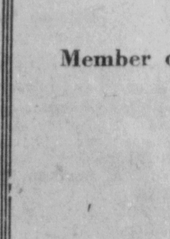

Oliver Hancock, attorney for Mrs. Lanier declared he would tolerate no delay in the payments.

"Lanier was given two months to get started and accumulate $40 for the support of his wife," he said. "He hasn't given her a cent."

Lanier and Miss Peggy Lewis were married in Atlanta last November and separated the next day. Mrs. Lanier sued Dr. J. D. Lanier, father of young Lanier, for $50,000, alleging alienation of affections. She charges he forbade young Lanier to live with her.

MRS. HINCKLEY NERVOUS WRECK

Tells How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sweep a room without resting. I could not do my work except a little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day some one threw your little book on to my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I went right out and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took two more. Now I am in perfect health. I do all of my own work and could do more. I can truly say that I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me my health."—Mrs. O. J. HINCKLEY, 316 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24. — (Office of the Fruit World)—The market on California Navel oranges shows no change in prices from those of a week ago. Adverse weather conditions early in the week slowed down business in many of the principal Eastern markets. Shippers reported a better inquiry the latter part of the week when the weather moderated.

March of this year has ushered in some unusually severe weather in the Eastern states. The free movement of California Navel oranges has been greatly interferred with.

April however is the great marketing month. Stocks in all lines are usually well reduced during this month and California Navel oranges take a commanding position in fruit stores. Simultaneously the frozen up back country opens and the housewives are liberal purchasers.

Predict Heavy Shipments.

The March 1 estimates showed 10,607 carloads of Navel oranges (400 boxes to the car) remaining for shipment. From March 1 to 21, inclusive, Navel orange shipments have totaled 3,605 cars, leaving approximately 7,002 cars of Navels remaining to go forward. Added to this are approximately 1,500 cars of Seedlings, Sweets, St. Michaels and miscellaneous oranges, bringing the total to 8,500 carloads of California oranges to be shipped exclusive of Valencias. If this fruit is to be marketed during the balance of March and the month of April, the average daily shipments must approximate 212 cars of these varieties.

F. O. B. California quotations continue on a basis of $1.75 per box for size 80s; $2.25 for 96s and 100s; $2.75 for 126s; $3.00 for 150s and $3.25 for smaller sizes.

Cash Sales Slow.

Cash California sales are slow. $2.75 to $3.00 per box is the prevailing quotation on cars loaded 10 per cent size 100s, 20 per cent 126s, balance smaller.

There is a little activity in Valencia oranges, but with 8,500 cars of Navels and miscellaneous varieties of oranges remaining, shippers are not inclined to hurry on Valencias.

Cash California asking price on Orange County Valencias is $3.50 per box for Fancy grade, cars running 75 per cent size 216s and larger. The predominating sizes are 176s, 200s, 216s, with 25 per cent size 250s and smaller. The general asking price on Tulare County Valencia oranges is $3.00 per box.

Lemon Market Dull.

The market on California lemons is inactive.

F. O. B. California quotations are on a basis of $4.00 to $4.25 per box of extra choice and $3.50 to $3.75 for choice.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days in all ports of the United States approximately 160,000 boxes of foreign lemons.

California will ship the second largest crop of lemons in the history of the industry during the current season. March first estimates showed a total of 10,878 cars. With the exception of the season 1920-21 when 11,805 cars were forwarded, this is the largest crop ever produced.

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, March 24.—Unsettlement was created in today's short stock market session by conspicuous talk regarding higher bank rates and by President Harding's statement that revision of the transportation act would be one of the first measures laid before the new congress.

But despite the presistent heaviness of the general list, no further progress was made on the reaction. Speculative leaders respected the points of resistance established in the previous session and Beachnut Packing showed strength sufficient to reach a new high for the year in the last hour.

Wall street evidently was disturbed by the reiterated announcement that President Harding's speeches this summer would advocate remodeling of the transportation act. Beyond previous proposals to make the labor board an offshoot of the commerce commission and a pious wish for lower rates, his ideas are not specified. From a political viewpoint it may be questioned whether the president's program is more than a backfire to the activities of the radicals in the next congress.

The market closed lower. Closing prices included:

GRAIN PRICES DROP ON CHICAGO BOARD

(By United Press Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, March 24.—All grain prices were lower at the close of a dull, short trading session on the Chicago board of trade today.

Restricted export demand for wheat resulted in some selling, and liquidation carried over from yesterday, was still apparent. Little buying power was apparent. Crop conditions were reported more favorable. Oklahoma advices already that green bugs just starting to invade wheat fields there, had been killed off by the recent cold weather. About 100,000 bushels of wheat were sold to store, to cover grain sold for May delivery. About 300,000 bushels of rye were also sold to store.

THE STORY OF THE TRUST COMPANY

NUMBER 2

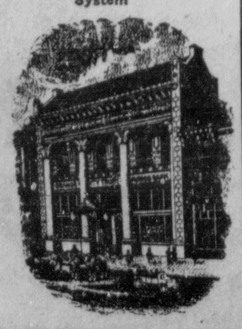

Administering Large and Small Estates

The Trust Company is for the average person and gives as careful attention to the small estate as to the large one. It is customary to find that a Trust Company cares for the smallest detail for one of its smallest customers with just as much consideration as it cares for a great estate, and estates are not the only things that Trust Companies handle. They also handle funds and properties for their customers during their lifetime, and they are as much interested in the small fund as in the great one. Investigation shows that their fees for the small trusts are in proportion to the size of the trust, and considering the services given a man of small means cannot afford to miss the Trust Company's services. It is the aim of our officers to so perform every duty entrusted to us that they will merit the further confidence of the people of the community.

URIC ACID
Does NOT Cause Rheumatism!

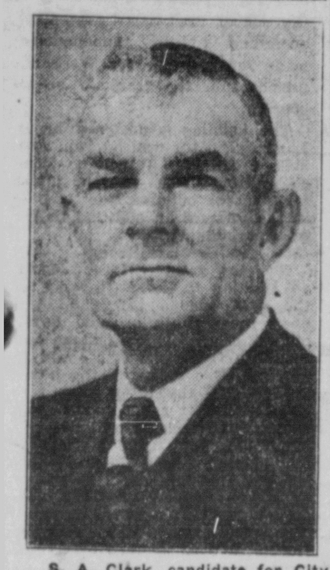

Furthermore, I claim that Uric Acid is a NATURAL and NECESSARY constituent of the blood—that it is found in the body of every new-born babe that without it we could not live! Strange statements? Yes—to you perhaps, because you have always been told differently.

But my book, The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism, just published, tells you the real truth about Rheumatism. Tells what actually DOES cause it and how it is now being successfully treated in all its different forms and stages by entirely new, advanced scientific methods.

The writing of this unusual book is the result of my twenty years study, experimentation and research in this disease and I want every sufferer of RHEUMATISM, NEURITIS, SCIATICA, GOUT, etc., no matter in what form or how chronic to read it. Therefore, although valuable, I will gladly send one complete copy only of the book absolutely free if you will send your address or that of any sufferer you may know, plainly written, to

MANY SEE FLOWER AND BIRD LIFE MYSTERIES IN MOVIES

Many Santa Anans who have not yet visited the Yosemite, were today planning vacation motor trips to the great national playground while many who have visited it were remembering with renewed interest the delights of the trip, after having seen, yesterday afternoon and evening, at the high school auditorium here, the Pillsbury pictures of birds and flowers of the Yosemite.

Crowds of persons greeted both programs which marked the conclusion of Pillsbury's stay in Orange county. It seemed that no one's anticipation of the films was too great, for they were even more beautiful and unusual than had been promised.

The city federation of Parent-Teacher associations was today being congratulated upon its vision in arranging for the entertaining feature.

Gives Short Talk

Showing of the films was prefaced by a short talk by Pillsbury, whose painstaking research and unending patience made the display possible. He briefly described the awakening of his interest in the new field, and the need of arousing the people of California to the wisdom of wild flower conservation.

"Yosemite park is yours and mine to enjoy and care for," he said. "The wonderful flowers growing there and in every part of California are one of the state's greatest assets. Let us enjoy them, but also let us conserve them too."

With a small motor so arranged that the pictures are taken automatically, Pillsbury poses his floral subjects in a flood of brilliant electric light and then allows "nature to take its course."

Shows Flowers' Phases

The subsequent development of buds, bursting into bloom and gradual fading and decay, covering a period in some cases of several days, is thus shown on the screen in a few seconds and gives an intimate and delightful understanding of a flower life very human in its phases.

Interspersed with the flower films were views of the Yosemite, including several of the beautiful waterfalls of which the Nevada falls, according to Pillsbury's idea, is the most wonderful. These views were from every possible angle, some even taken from an airplane soaring above and all around such world-famous peaks as Sentinel and Cathedral rocks, El Capitan and Inspiration Point.

Bridal Veil Falls, with its graceful sweep of water, was known to the Indians as "Pohono," or "The Spirit of the Evil Wind." Scenes showing it mirrored in the quiet lake were particularly beautiful.

Air Currents Constant

An idea of the constantly ascending air currents around Inspiration Point and other famous rocks from which the sheer drop to the canyons below is many thousands of feet, was given by the picture showing an intrepid maid in Indian costume, standing on the slender out-jutting point of rock (no larger than a dining-table) waving a flag and singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Despite her efforts, the current of air swept the folds of the flag straight upwards, a condition that is ever present, according to the speaker.

The fairyland appearance of the valley in winter was shown. Tall peaks were wreathed in snow, waterfalls were ice-bound and pines wore heavy masses of snow in their branches. In one mirrored representation of El Capitan in the lake the falling snow could be distinctly seen.

BEACH OIL MEN VOTE TO AID MRS. GATES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 24.—Full endorsement for the place on the grammar school board of trustees, to be filled at the election Friday, March 30, was last night given to Mrs. Blanche Gates by the Oil Workers' union and by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the union. Mrs. Gates had already been endorsed by the Huntington Beach Woman's club.

Mrs. Gates appeared before the oil workers and outlined the reasons which has caused her to become a candidate for the place which is also being sought again by W. L. McKinney, the present president of the board.

"True, I own no property, neither do I own a grocery store, a hardware store, or a bakery. But I do own children. I do not see how a woman and a mother on a board of education can upset any plans that the board has already made for school buildings, as stated in the paper this morning, Mrs. Gates told the oil men.

"Two years ago there were not 2000 people here. True, I am a newcomer. Four or 5000 people have come into this town and I am one of them. Because I have only been here months instead of years I see no reason why I should not work for humanity." Mrs. Gates left the building immediately after her speech and did not know until later in the evening that she had been endorsed for the place by the oil workers.

HIBBING MAN CONVICTED.

HIBBING, Minn., March 21. — Samuel Cavancija was found guilty in district court here charged with assault in the second degree. He will be sentenced later. Cavancija was charged with shooting Samuel Kovack, inflicting slight flesh wounds in a brawl at Carson Lake three weeks ago.

BOCK SIGN SEEN

NEW YORK, March 23. — A Third avenue saloonkeeper hung out a Bock sign and almost started a riot. He explained to police that "Spring couldn't start without it."

TEMPERANCE WORKER TO SPEAK AT GROVE

GARDEN GROVE, March 24. — Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler of Los Angeles will speak at the Methodist church March 26 at 7:30 o'clock on the subject "Round the World in Sixty Minutes." Mrs. Craven, who is a temperance missionary, has been heard before on "The Lands Beneath the Southern Cross." Here she will speak of the new league of nations, an organization which she describes as an international association to "free the world from the curse of alcoholic drinks."

REBUILDING DAM.

BLUE SPRINGS, Neb., March 2?.—Black Brothers mill here has been forced to shut down for a time on account of rebuilding the dam. The wall at the east end of the dam has been mostly torn out to facilitate in building the new $100,000 hydro-electric plant, which the industry is erecting. The dam is not strong enough to hold sufficient water to allow the mill to operate.

FEDERATED BROTHERHOOD OF CITY REVITALIZED AT MEET

The Federated Church Brotherhood of Santa Ana today was revitalized.

Absorbing new ideas from the speakers from Pasadena who were at the dinner meeting last night at the First Methodist church, the 400 members of the brotherhood voted to be a live, energetic, progressive organization.

The basement dining room of the church was crowded to the last chair. The women of the church served the dinner.

James W. Foley, newspaper versifier, was the speaker of the evening. He chose "Friendliness" as his topic.

John Franklin West, who is a brother of Judge Z. B. West of Santa Ana and who is superintendent of Pasadena schools, spoke on cooperation.

H. W. Bidwell, secretary of the Pasadena brotherhood; Fred Bull, vice president and a member of the school board, and A. J. Neimeyer, chairman of the welfare committee, and president-elect of the Protestant Welfare association, also spoke for a few minutes on the work they are doing at Pasadena.

Give Vocal Solos.

Songs during the evening were sung by Robert Brown and A. R. Garroway. Miss Ruth Armstrong was the accompanist. Brown's first song was the "Great Awakening."

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

Foley, who came from Pasadena, noted for his kindly humor and ability to make a verse a day, said the text of his talk was the line from Matthew.

"Help your friends and neighbors to be happy," he said, "and you will gain happiness."

Bidwell and Bull outlined the work of the Federated Church Brotherhood of Pasadena and spoke of the methods of strengthening the organization and the efforts to bring it to full development.

"It is well that Christian men can get together, look each other in the face, and join hands and hearts in this big work," said Bull.

Civic duties of Christian men were emphasized by Neimeyer.

Sounds Civic Duty Call.

"We want all our brotherhood men to be willing to serve on juries, to be vitally interested in school problems, to take an active part in their city's civic life as they do in the religious life and work of the church," said Neimeyer.

West spoke of the years he had been away from Santa Ana. He said he was satisfied to be in Pasadena. He spoke for unity and cooperation in the brotherhood work.

"In unity there is strength," he said. "If we all get together and co-operate in accomplishing this big Christian work, it must succeed."

A silver collection was taken to assist the Santa Ana brotherhood in financing its activities. J. R. Mayer, president of the organization, who presided at the meeting, explained that by-laws and a constitution were in committee. When these were adopted by the body as a whole a means would be provided to finance the meetings without resort to the collection plate, he said. The money was turned over to G. A. Barrows, treasurer.

TO ERECT HOTEL

WAYNE, Neb., March 23.—The erection of a new thirty room hotel to cost about $25,000 will be begun here soon by George Box. The building will be erected one block west of the First National bank. It will be modern in every way and will have a private bath in every room.

NEWPORT BEACH PREPARES FOR BIG GROWTH

By S. A. Meyer

NEWPORT BEACH, March 24—Development of Newport Beach in the next six months means the expenditure of more than a half million dollars, if plans and projects now under way and in the formative stage are accomplished.

On Thursday, March 29, a bond election of about $35,000 will be held in this city to vote comfort stations at Balboa, East Newport, Newport and West Newport; a fire hall at Balboa, a jail at Newport and improvement of the city park at East Newport.

More Paving Planned

The board of trustees inaugurated plans for considerable more paving and the opening of new streets, in addition to the $400,000 paving program now in course of construction. It is proposed to open and pave Central avenue from Main street, Balboa, north toward the jetty at the end of the sand spit. The paving, however, will not go that far, as the street turns toward the bay, but at least ten blocks will be paved. The board also desires to pave Bay avenue from Fourth street, near the Yacht club, to Eighteenth street, which is in the direction of Newport proper. This will open fourteen blocks and also give the city another paved through route between Newport and Balboa. These two improvements will easily aggregate $100,000.

New Homes Numerous

Dozens of new homes are under construction in all parts of town. It is freely predicted that the stretch of land along Central avenue between Newport and Balboa, will be built up almost solid by summer. Flats, bungalows and apartment houses are going up in East Newport and Balboa, in addition to several garages.

The city engineer is working on a program to give relief to West Newport in the way of better traffic accommodations. The city will pave a "Y" shaped roadway, thus obviating automobiles traveling several blocks out of the way in order to get into West Newport.

Predictions are freely made that Newport Beach will double its population inside of another year, and that it will develop as a winter resort in addition to being the summer playground of the counties of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino.

"POPPY DAY" TO BE OBSERVED BY POST

FULLERTON, March 24—The memory of the heroic dead, maimed and disabled of the world war will be marked May 30, by "Poppy day," to be held by the American Legion, a movement which will be joined by several thousand posts of the organization throughout the country, according to an announcement received at the local Legion post.

Replicas of the flower which covers the field of Flanders, where the blood of many American soldiers was shed, will be sold through the agency of the local posts and auxiliary units, and the returns from the sale of the poppies will be used for the relief of sick and needy veterans, and for the decoration of graves of the heroic dead who lie on foreign shores.

Many posts will take this method in raising their quota of the permanent endowment fund of $100,000 which is now being subscribed through the Legion in order that the resting places of the 32,100 American dead in Europe will be decorated each May 30.

The sale of the poppies will open a day or two prior to May 30, in most localities, so that there will be a popy on the breast of every American on Memorial Day, local Legion men said.

TALBERT

TALBERT, March 24.—Beet thinning has begun about Talbert but there is a decided contrast in the extent of the sugar beet industry engaged in here this year compared with all other seasons since it became a local industry. Hundreds of acres usually devoted to this crop are to go to lima beans and chilis and pimentos this year. Some of the latter are going in now and rapid preparations are going on the planting of the remainder of these crops at once.

More cows have been continually added to the Rogers-Thompson extensive dairy herd until at present a total of thirty cans of milk per day is shipped.

"Operations on the construction of the sewer pipe line are moving rapidly now, two different crews being engaged in the work. Contractor De Ware and his force began excavation for the extreme southern 2000 feet of ditch. This portion adjoining the bay is a difficult problem as quicksand is a continual detriment causing the necessity for much additional labor.

The ditch is dug extra wide and "blade" tiling is placed to hold back the sand while the line is being laid.

The dredger crew of Dave Fulsom and Sam Talbert, which are doing the excavation work on the northern section of ditch. have worked to a point where the quicksand is not interferring. 1000 feet, just completed on the southern extremity of their contract was heavily graveled and in this manner headway was made in spite of the sand. Three thousand more feet of this extremity is uncompleted and three-fourths miles on the north yet remains.

E. E. Elbertson who has been ill with influenza is able to be out again.

Mr. Bland is on the sick list this week surering from an attack of influenza.

Large tracts of land are being irrigated or are being prepared for irrigation. Among the ranches under irrigation this week are those of Robert Gisler, Ed. Farnsworth, Plavan, Lamb and Pope.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Shiffer of Greenville were among those from a distance who attended services at the local church Wednesday evening.

LAGUNA ARTIST IS PRAISED FOR WORK SEEN AT PASADENA

PASADENA, March 24—Oils and watercolors by Anna A. Hills, of Laguna Beach, are adorning the walls of the Shakespeare clubhouse main auditorium and hall, and are receiving much favorable comment from club members and visitors. Included in the exhibit are about twenty-five pictures, with the oils predominating.

Particularly attractive in coloring and composition is "Autumn's Golden Glory," showing a glimpse of woodland glade with the yellows and russets in the foliage of some sprawling trees, and the sunlight bathing the whole scene in splendor. "Monterey Pines" is another of the larger paintings which interests both by color and composition. Among the smaller canvases is one of a beautiful desert sunset near Palm Springs.

Probably best among the smaller water colors, of which there are some particularly charming things, is "Ruth at Laguna," a bit which shows a pretty girl seated on a bit of wreckage on the seashore, with the dancing waves in the perspective. Several scenes are in the Laguna district, and some of the smaller pictures, and one large oil show views of San Juan Capistrano Mission.

JUNIOR HIGH IN ANAHEIM WILL BEGIN SOON

ANAHEIM, March 24 — The work on the new junior high school in Anaheim is to begin at once, and the new building will be ready for use at the opening of the school work next September, according to an announcement made today by George W. Sloop, president of the grammar school board.

The building is designed by M. Eugene Durlee, well known Anaheim architect. It will be located in front of the present junior high school building and will be in the form of an addition to the present building.

Nine Class Rooms

The new front will be a decided addition to the appearance of the west end of town and will keep pace with the rapid development of schools in Anaheim and Southern California. There are to be nine class rooms in the building besides the office and rest room, and four toilet rooms. The front of the building will be very much like the front of the new junior high school in Redlands, but the Anaheim school will have an added artistic appearance. The architecture is to be of a modified Spanish style, finished in tan stucco, relieved by face brick and terra cotta.

The work will be done by the day, under the supervision of Walter Hansen of Anaheim. It is the purpose of the board to erect a building of which the community may be proud and to give the community full value for every dollar expended.

Rooms Are Filled

The five upstairs rooms will be used for fifth and sixth grade pupils until the space is needed for use of the departmental work. The present enrollment of the seventh and eighth grades has increased until there are classes having more than fifty pupils. This condition will be relieved by the present addition.

The present school board has built four small buildings by day labor in the past two years and the proportional saving will be made in the present new building on a larger scale, said Mr. Sloop.

The estimated cost of the new building is $50,000 and will be erected without the usual bond issue. The fund is the saving on grammar school operations over the last two years.

GIVES REASONS FOR TIRE TAX INSTEAD OF GAS LEVY

S. A. Realtor Writes Local Assemblyman Concerning Substitute Measure

WOULD ASSESS TRUCKS

Holds Heavy Vehicles Are Responsible for Nearly All Highway Damage

Asserting that trucks do 95 per cent of the damage to roads and that they would pay only 5 per cent of the gasoline consumed under the proposed plan, Duane Holmes, of the Holmes Realty company, has written Assemblyman Dr. C. D. Ball, a letter declaring that imposition of a gasoline tax is not the best way to raise funds for maintenance of state highways.

He favors a tax on tires, as advocated by G. B. Darnell, whose opinion on the subject was expressed in an interview in the automobile section of The Register last Saturday.

Discussing the gasoline tax, Holmes said he believed that 95 per cent of the gasoline consumption today is by automobiles and farm machinery, with trucks consuming only 5 per cent.

Lays Damage to Trucks.

"There is no doubt but that trucks do at least 95 per cent of the damage to highways," says Holmes in his letter to the assemblyman. "The gasoline tax would not put the cost where it really belongs, and would invite dishonesty if the farm and stationary engines were exempted.

"To me, it seems that a very simple and equitable way would be to put a direct tax on tires, graduating it in such a manner that small cars, motorcycles and small trailers would pay only a small tax, while the heavier automobiles would pay a little more and trucks, using large tires, would pay a much heavier rate.

"For instance, a tax of 15 to 20 per cent could be collected on the cost of all tires not larger than 3½

State Registration To Reach Million Motor Cars, Belief . .

One million motor vehicles will be registered in California this year, in the opinion of Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the motor vehicle department.

His belief is based on an estimated registration for this year up to the present of 775,000. Of this number, 690,000 are pleasure cars, as against 822,394 in 1922. The total last year, for all classes was 930,946. This total, compared with that of 1915 when registrations were 163,000, presents forcibly the advance of gas wagons in public favor.

URGES AUTOISTS TO USE MORE CARE AS TRAFFIC INCREASES

Motorists today were cautioned by officials of the Automobile Club of Orange county to be more careful in their driving during the spring months. It was pointed out that the increase of traffic on the roads, due to the particularly fine motoring weather, will tend to increase accidents unless more care is observed.

"Many persons have again heard the call of the road and are flocking out on Saturdays and Sundays for tours," said A. S. Ralph, manager of the local club.

"This naturally causes more or less congestion on roads, and as a great number of the drivers are more or less unfamiliar with the traffic conditions and the crossings of the roads, local drivers should pay particular attention to other cars and watch that no accidents occur because of carelessness on their part."

TELLS PLAN TO ADAPT AUTOS TO STREET

City Planner of New York Urges Laying of Roads With Cars In Mind

OXFORD WINS BIG THIMES CREW RACE

Streets will become safe for pedestrians and traffic more efficient only after thoroughfares have been laid out, with the automobile and its characteristics in mind.

This is the conclusion formed by Herbert S. Swan, city planner and traffic consultant of New York, who has made a thorough study of the possibilities and limitations of automobiles and automobile traffic.

"The street and vehicle using the street must be adapted to one another," says Swan. "The city planner must recognize the mechanical limitations of the automobile in laying out and regulating traffic in his streets."

At the same time, adds Swan, the automobile must be adapted to the physical limitations of the thoroughfare plan.

Driving Facts

Swan's research has brought out the following facts:

1. An automobile's speed can ordinarily be reduced at the rate of eight feet a second, each second.

2. On a wet asphalt or concrete pavement it requires about twice as much distance to stop a car as on a dry road. On a greasy road, the distance would have to be about 10 times as great.

3. The fastest speed a car can go and yet be stopped in one second is 5.4 miles an hour.

4. The distance within which an auto can be stopped varies as the square of the speed. That is, if the speed of the car is doubled, the stopping distance is quadrupled. If the speed is tripled, nine times the ordinary stopping

CRACK DRIVERS ENTER ANNUAL HILL CLIMB

National Champion Latest to Enter Big Classic at Capistrano

The Orange County Motorcycle club at its meeting next Tuesday evening will complete plans for the annual hill climb to be held near San Juan Capistrano Sunday, April 8, C. M. Shook, chairman of the hill climb committee of the club, announced today.

Cups to be awarded in the contests are now on display at the jewelry store of Smith and Bishop, 113 West Fourth street.

Shook said today that it was definitely learned that Orrie Steel, national hill climb champion, will be here to participate in the big annual event.

Many riders of local and national repute who have contested in previous contests also will be seen in action again, according to Shook.

Among them will be Wells Bennett, Portland, Excelsior rider; Archie Rife, Sacramento, Indian; Ralph Sullivan, Los Angeles, Indian; Ed Ryan, Colorado Springs, Colo., Excelsior; William (Dud) Perkins, San Francisco, Harley-Davidson; Rich Budelier, Los Angeles, Harley-Davidson; Floyd Climer, Denver, Indian, and Orvel Healton, Santa Ana, Excelsior.

Entry List Large

There will be many other entries, these being merely a few of the luminaries.

There will be three events. The first will be for novices on machines of 61 cubic inch displacement. The second will be with machines of the same size ridden by professionals. The third, and the big drawing card, is the free for all for 80 cubic inch motorcycles. In the first two contests, traction devices are limited to chains or rope. In the latter there is no limit and the individual rider may use any type of traction he may choose.

The program will begin promptly at 12 m.

With reports indicating the largest attendance in the history of the famous hill climb, parking space will be provided for 10,000 automobiles.

To Megaphone Distances

To save time and labor, and give better service in announcement of results, a telephone will be installed on the hill along the course. The distances traveled by each motorbike will be telephoned to a score board operator on the side of the hill and then megaphoned to the crowd.

E. A. Travant, who has waved the starting flag in the last five annual climbs, will officiate again this year. Tennant Lee, state representative of the Motorcycle and Allied Trades association, also will be present, as the contest is under the rules of the national organization.

Ward Sutton, of Santa Ana, will officiate as referee, a position he has served in for a number of years.

The course is now in excellent condition, it is reported.

LATEST STYLES FOR CAMPERS EXHIBITED

Santa Ana motorists today were keenly interested in the advance summer styles in camping outfits on display at the Livesey store, 214 East Fourth street.

According to Elmer Preston and James Livesey jr. co-partners in the firm, all the latest designs in tents, cook stoves, tables, chairs and other compact equipment calculated to bring delight to the hearts of the camping enthusiasts are on exhibition at the store.

"We are expecting an unprecedented run on equipment of this kind," Preston said, "for all indications point to a banner season for the hikers and campers. With this in view we ordered an unusually large stock of goods this spring."

PUSHING 'SPARK PLUG' OUT OF TOMB FOR CHAMPIONSHIP RACES

Here is the first entry in the Orange County Auto Resurrection Day races. "Spark Plug" was entered by the Cadillac Garage company from its stock of ancient cars. "Sparky" is a Chalmers-Detroit car of the 1913 model. George K. Martin is the driver and his mechanic, standing on the far side of the car, is Lewis L. Betts of the Cadillac garage. Pushing "Spark Plug" into the entry list are Miss Ella Slocum, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Ruby Bush, assistant city clerk.

162 KILLED BY TRAIN WRECKS IN ONE YEAR

BY F. T. SMITH,
(Santa Ana agent for the Santa Fe Railway Co.)

In 1921 it cost the railroads of this country $12,250,000 for accidents where automobiles and trains collided. In only a comparatively few of the cases were the railroads actually to blame. Inexcusable carelessness on the part of the drivers of automobiles was the cause for the great majority of the fatalities.

Commissioners of safety have their troubles. Chosen to draft and enforce ordinances and regulations in the interest of public safety, they find the very conless than one-fifth, of the causalties their authority are the hardest to save from themselves.

In the year 1921, the total casualties to persons, exclusive of employes, in railway collisions and derailments were 162 killed and 2758 injured. During the same period there were exclusive of railway employes, 3966 persons killed and 8684 injured in highway grade crossing accidents, by getting on or off cars or locomotives, and through trespassing on railway property.

Thus it occurs in railway activity that when the public acts either wholly or partially on its own impulses there are nearly twenty-five times as many people killed, and three times as many injured as when it yields to the judgment of railway employes. In other words, only about 18 per cent, or less that one-fifth, of the casualties are entirely beyond the control of the victim.

To put it still another way, when a person exercises his own volition, he is four times as likely to incur disaster as when restrained by the well established regulations of railway operation. Accident statistics in every day life are still more illuminating in this respect. The natural tendency of society, individually and collectively, to chafe under restraint for the common good of all is the greatest bar to the conservation of life and limb. The inexorable tolls fixed for the careless are paid by the masses.

"Spark Plug" is the first entry in the Orange County Auto Resurrection Day races.

"Sparky" was entered today by the Cadillac Garage company of Santa Ana. George K. Martin will drive the Cadillac entry in its rattling journey around the course in the $50 auto claiming race to be staged on the outskirts of Santa Ana Saturday, May 5, by a committee co-operating with Santa Ana Post, No. 131, American Legion.

The Cadillac entry is a 1913 Chalmers-Detroit car from the used car yard of the garage company. "Sparky's" lines are up to date but when one has made that comment one has said all that is to be said in favor of the steed of rattling wreckage. "Sparky" has seen better days and its appearance in the big race will probably be its dying effort.

Wins by Length.

In the race to be the first entry "Sparky" showed some real pep and succeeded in getting under the wire a length in front of the big Cadillac car of the 1910 vintage. This monster came to life in the wrecking yard of the Orange County Auto Parts and Supply company, 207 North Sycamore street. The owners of this car are considering calling her Clara Phillips because she "hammers a little."

This big car is now being jazzed up for the races and will soon appear on Orange county highways in a series of tests to determine whether it will hold together in the gruelling race for the ancient automobile championship.

Boyd and Henley Ellis, who won fame for Santa Ana in the Phoenix-Los Angeles road races many years ago, are said to be getting the racing fever again and are going to enter their old 1908 Buick in the race. This car is now being used as a chicken roost, but the Ellis brothers claim the wreck still has a strong heart and will be able to last through the race.

Car Demand Grows.

Word came to the race promoters this week from auto wrecking yards from all sections of the county that the demand for old cars is growing among autoists with ambitions to become racing drivers. The only thing that halted several prospective sales was the question as to whether the cars would hold together until the day of the races.

Entry blanks for the races can be had on application to Horace Fine, Auto Editor, Santa Ana Register, who, with Tom Lewis and Charles Wheatley, is promoting the event in co-operation with Santa Ana Post, No. 131, American Legion.

MILEAGE BASIS IS NEW PLAN OF OAKLAND

The Oakland's new "Mileage Basis Plan," advancing a definite way to gauge motor car value, was introduced here today by Edgar and Hays, local agents for the Oakland. Booklets containing the points that determine value are available at the agency, Sixth street and Broadway.

Seven points, in particular, are specified, covering the parts that enter into cost of maintenance, and the mileage that each part should give without expense or attention.

In the Oakland, the manufacturers make the following points: Main bearing and connecting rod bearings should give a service of 40,000 miles plus. It is claimed the main crank shaft bearing will function properly for that number of miles without adjustment or replacement.

Valves, cylinders, pistons and rings, under proper handling, should give 15,000 miles or better. The Oakland gives a special written 15,000 mile guarantee against excess oil in the combustion chamber.

Gasoline mileage of 20 to 25 miles and tire mileage of 15,000 to 25,000 miles are possible because of certain features of construction employed in the Oakland, according to the manufacturers. Transmission, axles and frame should endure for the life of the car, the producers set forth in their claims that the Oakland is big value.

FEBRUARY 1923 CAR SALES IN 88 PER CENT JUMP OVER FEB. 1922

Total Deliveries for Past Month In Aggregate Of 17,344 Machines

FORMER RECORD 9,234

Month Free of Rain Starts California Buyers Out Earlier Than Usual

February records, according to Motor Registration News, published at Oakland, for 1922 and 1923 give the latter month an increase of 88 per cent over the February, 1922, mark. Total sales cars and trucks, aggregated 17,344, compared to 9,234.

Passenger car sales were 94 per cent better, and truck registrations 45 per cent improved over 1922.

Northern California had a total increase of 101 per cent, and Southern California a gain of 79 per cent.

Passenger sales increased 76 per cent in the north and 103 in the south.

Trucks improved to the extent of 60 per cent in Northern California sales and 35 per cent in the 11 southern counties.

"Briefly, the foregoing summary gives a good idea of the speed at which the industry is traveling this year in California," says the publication. "Good weather and reasonably steady shipments of cars from the east are two reasons which helped the distributors and dealers to pile up this remarkably high early season total of 17,344 sales.

"March has been the starting point in other years for high totals. In this case, however, a month free from rain in most sections of the state started the buyers out quicker than usual.

"At this writing, the nineteenth of the month, enough registrations have rolled into the office in March to vouch as authentic the statement that March will shatter all previous sales totals. It will, unquestionably, unless a slump in trade occurs between now and the last day of the month.

"Northern California, judging by its record on a percentage basis, did better in February than it has for quite a period back. The south's marginal increase is still much bigger than the northern territory both in trucks and passenger cars.

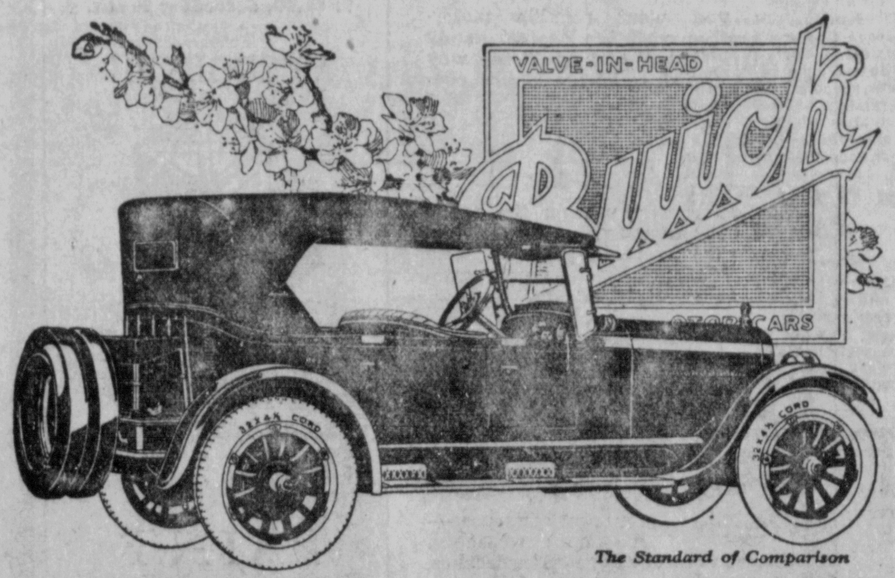

"At the pace the state is now setting the prediction seems likely of fulfillment for a 200,000 year in California."

TELLS REASONS WHY AUTO TIRES BLOWOUT

"Many motorists believe that rim cutting of tires is an unfathomable mystery," says Ray Lyon, local distributor for Miller tires. "Underinflation usually is the cause but it has an ally in side sway.

"Whenever tires are not properly inflated, the body of the car is permitted to sway from side to side unnecessarily. This movement is aggravated in turning corners sharply. When the air pressure is below standard, the pulling on the side walls is excessive.

"The effect of the strain often breaks one or more plies of the fabric nearest the rim.

NEWPORT BEACH PREPARES FOR BIG GROWTH

By S. A. Meyer

NEWPORT BEACH, March 24—Development of Newport Beach in the next six months means the expenditure of more than a half million dollars, if plans and projects now under way and in the formative stage are accomplished.

On Thursday, March 29, a bond election of about $35,000 will be held in this city to vote comfort stations at Balboa, East Newport, Newport and West Newport; a fire hall at Balboa, a jail at Newport and improvement of the city park at East Newport.

More Paving Planned

The board of trustees inaugurated plans for considerable more paving and the opening of new streets, in addition to the $400,000 paving program now in course of construction. It is proposed to open and pave Central avenue from Main street, Balboa, north toward the jetty at the end of the sand spit. The paving, however, will not go that far, as the street turns toward the bay, but at least ten blocks will be paved. The board also desires to pave Bay avenue from Fourth street, near the Yacht club, to Eighteenth street, which is in the direction of Newport proper. This will open fourteen blocks and also give the city another paved through route between Newport and Balboa. These two improvements will easily aggregate $100,000.

New Homes Numerous

Dozens of new homes are under construction in all parts of town. It is freely predicted that the stretch of land along Central avenue between Newport and Balboa, will be built up almost solid by summer. Flats, bungalows and apartment houses are going up in East Newport and Balboa, in addition to several garages.

The city engineer is working on a program to give relief to West Newport in the way of better traffic accommodations. The city will pave a "Y" shaped roadway, thus obviating automobiles traveling several blocks out of the way in order to get into West Newport.

Predictions are freely made that Newport Beach will double its population inside of another year, and that it will develop as a winter resort in addition to being the summer playground of the counties of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino.

"POPPY DAY" TO BE OBSERVED BY POST

FULLERTON, March 24—The memory of the heroic dead, maimed and disabled of the world war will be marked May 30, by "Poppy day," to be held by the American Legion, a movement which will be joined by several thousand posts of the organization throughout the country, according to an announcement received at the local Legion post.

Replicas of the flower which covers the field of Flanders, where the blood of many American soldiers was shed, will be sold through the agency of the local posts and auxiliary units, and the returns from the sale of the poppies will be used for the relief of sick and needy veterans, and for the decoration of graves of the heroic dead who lie on foreign shores.

Many posts will take this method in raising their quota of the permanent endowment fund of $100,000 which is now being subscribed through the Legion in order that the resting places of the 32,100 American dead in Europe will be decorated each May 30.

The sale of the poppies will open a day or two prior to May 30, in most localities, so that there will be a popy on the breast of every American on Memorial Day, local Legion men said.

TALBERT

TALBERT, March 24.—Beet thinning has begun about Talbert but there is a decided contrast in the extent of the sugar beet industry engaged in here this year compared with all other seasons since it became a local industry. Hundreds of acres usually devoted to this crop are to go to lima beans and chilis and pimentos this year. Some of the latter are going in now and rapid preparations are going on the planting of the remainder of these crops at once.

More cows have been continually added to the Rogers-Thompson extensive dairy herd until at present a total of thirty cans of milk per day is shipped.

"Operations on the construction of the sewer pipe line are moving rapidly now, two different crews being engaged in the work. Contractor De Ware and his force began excavation for the extreme southern 2000 feet of ditch. This portion adjoining the bay is a difficult problem as quicksand is a continual detriment causing the necessity for much additional labor.

The ditch is dug extra wide and "blade" tiling is placed to hold back the sand while the line is being laid.

The dredger crew of Dave Fulsom and Sam Talbert, which are doing the excavation work on the northern section of ditch. have worked to a point where the quicksand is not interferring. 1000 feet, just completed on the southern extremity of their contract was heavily graveled and in this manner headway was made in spite of the sand. Three thousand more feet of this extremity is uncompleted and three-fourths miles on the north yet remains.

E. E. Elbertson who has been ill with influenza is able to be out again.

Mr. Bland is on the sick list this week surering from an attack of influenza.

LAGUNA ARTIST IS PRAISED FOR WORK SEEN AT PASADENA

PASADENA, March 24—Oils and watercolors by Anna A. Hills, of Laguna Beach, are adorning the walls of the Shakespeare clubhouse main auditorium and hall, and are receiving much favorable comment from club members and visitors. Included in the exhibit are about twenty-five pictures, with the oils predominating.

Particularly attractive in coloring and composition is "Autumn's Golden Glory," showing a glimpse of woodland glade with the yellows and russets in the foliage of some sprawling trees, and the sunlight bathing the whole scene in splendor. "Monterey Pines" is another of the larger paintings which interests both by color and composition. Among the smaller canvases is one of a beautiful desert sunset near Palm Springs.

Probably best among the smaller water colors, of which there are some particularly charming things, is "Ruth at Laguna," a bit which shows a pretty girl seated on a bit of wreckage on the seashore, with the dancing waves in the perspective. Several scenes are in the Laguna district, and some of the smaller pictures, and one large oil show views of San Juan Capistrano Mission.

JUNIOR HIGH IN ANAHEIM WILL BEGIN SOON

ANAHEIM, March 24 — The work on the new junior high school in Anaheim is to begin at once, and the new building will be ready for use at the opening of the school work next September, according to an announcement made today by George W. Sloop, president of the grammar school board.

The building is designed by M. Eugene Durlee, well known Anaheim architect. It will be located in front of the present junior high school building and will be in the form of an addition to the present building.

Nine Class Rooms

The new front will be a decided addition to the appearance of the west end of town and will keep pace with the rapid development of schools in Anaheim and Southern California. There are to be nine class rooms in the building besides the office and rest room, and four toilet rooms. The front of the building will be very much like the front of the new junior high school in Redlands, but the Anaheim school will have an added artistic appearance. The architecture is to be of a modified Spanish style, finished in tan stucco, relieved by face brick and terra cotta.

The work will be done by the day, under the supervision of Walter Hansen of Anaheim. It is the purpose of the board to erect a building of which the community may be proud and to give the community full value for every dollar expended.

Rooms Are Filled

The five upstairs rooms will be used for fifth and sixth grade pupils until the space is needed for use of the departmental work. The present enrollment of the seventh and eighth grades has increased until there are classes having more than fifty pupils. This condition will be relieved by the present addition.

The present school board has built four small buildings by day labor in the past two years and the proportional saving will be made in the present new building on a larger scale, said Mr. Sloop.

The estimated cost of the new building is $50,000 and will be erected without the usual bond issue. The fund is the saving on grammar school operations over the last two years.

GIVES REASONS FOR TIRE TAX INSTEAD OF GAS LEVY

S. A. Realtor Writes Local Assemblyman Concerning Substitute Measure

WOULD ASSESS TRUCKS

Holds Heavy Vehicles Are Responsible for Nearly All Highway Damage

Asserting that trucks do 95 per cent of the damage to roads and that they would pay only 5 per cent of the gasoline consumed under the proposed plan. Duane Holmes, of the Holmes Realty company, has written Assemblyman Dr. C. D. Ball, a letter declaring that imposition of a gasoline tax is not the best way to raise funds for maintenance of state highways.

He favors a tax on tires, as advocated by G. B. Darnell, whose opinion on the subject was expressed in an interview in the automobile section of The Register last Saturday.

Discussing the gasoline tax, Holmes said he believed that 95 per cent of the gasoline consumption today is by automobiles and farm machinery, with trucks consuming only 5 per cent.

Lays Damage to Trucks.

"There is no doubt but that trucks do at least 95 per cent of the damage to highways," says Holmes in his letter to the assemblyman. "The gasoline tax would not put the cost where it really belongs, and would invite dishonesty if the farm and stationary engines were exempted.

"To me, it seems that a very simple and equitable way would be to put a direct tax on tires, graduating it in such a manner that small cars, motorcycles and small trailers would pay only a small tax, while the heavier automobiles would pay a little more and trucks, using large tires, would pay a much heavier rate.

"For instance, a tax of 15 to 20 per cent could be collected on the cost of all tires not larger than 3½

State Registration To Reach Million Motor Cars, Belief . .

One million motor vehicles will be registered in California this year, in the opinion of Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the motor vehicle department.

His belief is based on an estimated registration for this year up to the present of 775,000. Of this number, 690,000 are pleasure cars, as against 822,394 in 1922. The total last year, for all classes was 930,946. This total, compared with that of 1915 when registrations were 163,000, presents forcibly the advance of gas wagons in public favor.

URGES AUTOISTS TO USE MORE CARE AS TRAFFIC INCREASES

Motorists today were cautioned by officials of the Automobile Club of Orange county to be more careful in their driving during the spring months. It was pointed out that the increase of traffic on the roads, due to the particularly fine motoring weather, will tend to increase accidents unless more care is observed.

"Many persons have again heard the call of the road and are flocking out on Saturdays and Sundays for tours," said A. S. Ralph, manager of the local club.

"This naturally causes more or less congestion on roads, and as a great number of the drivers are more or less unfamiliar with the traffic conditions and the crossings of the roads, local drivers should pay particular attention to other cars and watch that no accidents occur because of carelessness on their part."

TELLS PLAN TO ADAPT AUTOS TO STREET

City Planner of New York Urges Laying of Roads With Cars In Mind

Streets will become safe for pedestrians and traffic more efficient only after thoroughfares have been laid out, with the automobile and its characteristics in mind.

This is the conclusion formed by Herbert S. Swan, city planner and traffic consultant of New York, who has made a thorough study of the possibilities and limitations of automobiles and automobile traffic.

"The street and vehicle using the street must be adapted to one another," says Swan. "The city planner must recognize the mechanical limitations of the automobile in laying out and regulating traffic in his streets."

At the same time, adds Swan, the automobile must be adapted to the physical limitations of the thoroughfare plan.

Driving Facts

Swan's research has brought out the following facts:

1. An automobile's speed can ordinarily be reduced at the rate of eight feet a second, each second.

2. On a wet asphalt or concrete pavement it requires about twice as much distance to stop a car as on a dry road. On a greasy road, the distance would have to be about 10 times as great.

3. The fastest speed a car can go and yet be stopped in one second is 5.4 miles an hour.

4. The distance within which an auto can be stopped varies as the square of the speed. That is, if the speed of the car is doubled, the stopping distance is quadrupled. If the speed is tripled, nine times the ordinary stopping

TELLS PLAN TO CRACK DRIVERS ENTER ANNUAL HILL CLIMB

National Champion Latest to Enter Big Classic at Capistrano

The Orange County Motorcycle club at its meeting next Tuesday evening will complete plans for the annual hill climb to be held near San Juan Capistrano Sunday, April 8, C. M. Shook, chairman of the hill climb committee of the club, announced today.

Cups to be awarded in the contests are now on display at the jewelry store of Smith and Bishop, 112 West Fourth street.

Shook said today that it was definitely learned that Orrie Steel, national hill climb champion, will be here to participate in the big annual event.

Many riders of local and national repute who have contested in previous contests also will be seen in action again, according to Shook.

Among them will be Wells Bennett, Portland, Excelsior rider; Archie Rife, Sacramento, Indian; Ralph Sullivan, Los Angeles, Indian; Ed Ryan, Colorado Springs, Colo., Excelsior; William (Dud) Perkins, San Francisco, Harley-Davidson; Rich Budelier, Los Angeles, Harley-Davidson; Floyd Climer, Denver, Indian, and Orvel Healton, Santa Ana, Excelsior.

Entry List Large

There will be many other entries, these being merely a few of the luminaries.

There will be three events. The first will be for novices on machines of 61 cubic inch displacement. The second will be with machines of the same size ridden by professionals. The third, and the big drawing card, is the free for all for 80 cubic inch motorcycles. In the first two contests, traction devices are limited to chains or rope. In the latter there is no limit and the individual rider may use any type of traction he may choose.

The program will begin promptly at 12 m.

With reports indicating the largest attendance in the history of the famous hill climb, parking space will be provided for 10,000 automobiles.

To Megaphone Distances

To save time and labor, and give better service in announcement of results, a telephone will be installed on the hill along the course. The distances traveled by each motorbike will be telephoned to a score board operator on the side of the hill and then megaphoned to the crowd.

E. A. Travant, who has waved the starting flag in the last five annual climbs, will officiate again this year. Tennant Lee, state representative of the Motorcycle and Allied Trades association, also will be present, as the contest is under the rules of the national organization.

Ward Sutton, of Santa Ana, will officiate as referee, a position he has served in for a number of years.

The course is now in excellent condition, it is reported.

LATEST STYLES FOR CAMPERS EXHIBITED

Santa Ana motorists today were keenly interested in the advance summer styles in camping outfits on display at the Livesey store, 214 East Fourth street.

According to Elmer Preston and James Livesey jr., co-partners in the firm, all the latest designs in tents, cook stoves, tables, chairs and other compact equipment calculated to bring delight to the hearts of the camping enthusiasts are on exhibition at the store.

"We are expecting an unprecedented run on equipment of this kind," Preston said, "for all indications point to a banner season for the hikers and campers. With this in view we ordered an unusually large stock of goods this spring."

MOVIE SHIPYARD IS TO BE CONSTRUCTED

NEWPORT BEACH, March 24—A shipyard with a crew of 200 men will be one of the motion picture sets to be constructed on the beach between here and Balboa for the filming of "Captain Applejack" according to an announcement made in Hollywood this week by Fred Niblo.

The picture also demand seven square rigged vessels of the pirate period, four tugs for towing, three hydroplanes for couriers and three camera barges. The picture is taken from the New York stage success of the same title.

PUSHING 'SPARK PLUG' OUT OF TOMB FOR CHAMPIONSHIP RACES

Here is the first entry in the Orange County Auto Resurrection Day races. "Spark Plug" was entered by the Cadillac Garage company from its stock of ancient cars. "Sparky" is a Chalmers-Detroit car of the 1913 model. George K. Martin is the driver and his mechanic, standing on the far side of the car, is Lewis L. Betts of the Cadillac garage. Pushing "Spark Plug" into the entry list are Miss Ella Slocum, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Ruby Bush, assistant city clerk.

162 KILLED BY TRAIN WRECKS IN ONE YEAR

BY F. T. SMITH,
(Santa Ana agent for the Santa Fe Railway Co.)

In 1921 it cost the railroads of this country $12,250,000 for accidents where automobiles and trains collided. In only a comparatively few of the cases were the railroads actually to blame. Inexcusable carelessness on the part of the drivers of automobiles was the cause for the great majority of the fatalities.

Commissioners of safety have their troubles. Chosen to draft and enforce ordinances and regulations in the interest of public safety, they find the very conless than one-fifth, of the causalties their authority are the hardest to save from themselves.

In the year 1921, the total casualties to persons, exclusive of employes, in railway collisions and derailments were 162 killed and 2758 injured. During the same period there were exclusive of railway employes, 3966 persons killed and 8684 injured in highway grade crossing accidents by getting on or off cars or locomotives, and through trespassing on railway property.

Thus it occurs in railway activity that when the public acts either wholly or partially on its own impulses there are nearly twenty-five times as many people killed, and three times as many injured as when it yields to the judgment of railway employes. In other words, only about 18 per cent, or less that one-fifth, of the casualties are entirely beyond the control of the victim.

To put it still another way, when a person exercises his own volition, he is four times as likely to incur disaster as when restrained by the well established regulations of railway operation. Accident statistics in every day life are still more illuminating in this respect. The natural tendency of society, individually and collectively, to chafe under restraint for the common good of all is the greatest bar to the conservation of life and limb. The inexorable tolls fixed for the careless are paid by the masses.

"Spark Plug" is the first entry in the Orange County Auto Resurrection Day races.

"Sparky" was entered today by the Cadillac Garage company of Santa Ana. George K. Martin will drive the Cadillac entry in its rattling journey around the course in the $50 auto claiming race to be staged on the outskirts of Santa Ana Saturday, May 5, by a committee co-operating with Santa Ana Post, No. 131, American Legion.

The Cadillac entry is a 1913 Chalmers-Detroit car from the used car yard of the garage company. "Sparky's" lines are up to date but when one has made that comment one has said all that is to be said in favor of the steed of rattling wreckage. "Sparky" has seen better days and its appearance in the big race will probably be its dying effort.

Wins by Length.

In the race to be the first entry "Sparky" showed some real pep and succeeded in getting under the wire a length in front of the big Cadillac car of the 1910 vintage. This monster came to life in the wrecking yard of the Orange County Auto Parts and Supply company, 207 North Sycamore street. The owners of this car are considering calling her Clara Phillips because she "hammers a little."

This big car is now being jazzed up for the races and will soon appear on Orange county highways in a series of tests to determine whether it will hold together in the gruelling race for the ancient automobile championship.

Boyd and Henley Ellis, who won fame for Santa Ana in the Phoenix-Los Angeles road races many years ago, are said to be getting the racing fever again and are going to enter their old 1908 Buick in the race. This car is now being used as a chicken roost, but the Ellis brothers claim the wreck still has a strong heart and will be able to last through the race.

Car Demand Grows.

Word came to the race promoters this week from auto wrecking yards from all sections of the county that the demand for old cars is growing among autoists with ambitions to become racing drivers. The only thing that halted several prospective sales was the question as to whether the cars would hold together until the day of the races.

Entry blanks for the races can be had on application to Horace Fine, Auto Editor, Santa Ana Register, who, with Tom Lewis and Charles Wheatley, is promoting the event in co-operation with Santa Ana Post, No. 131, American Legion.

FEBRUARY 1923 CAR SALES IN 88 PER CENT JUMP OVER FEB. 1922

Total Deliveries for Past Month In Aggregate Of 17,344 Machines

FORMER RECORD 9,234

Month Free of Rain Starts California Buyers Out Earlier Than Usual

February records, according to Motor Registration News, published at Oakland, for 1922 and 1923 give the latter month an increase of 88 per cent over the February, 1922, mark. Total sales cars and trucks, aggregated 17,344, compared to 9,234.

Passenger car sales were 94 per cent better, and truck registrations 45 per cent improved over 1922.

Northern California had a total increase of 101 per cent, and Southern California a gain of 79 per cent.

Passenger sales increased 76 per cent in the north and 103 in the south.

Trucks improved to the extent of 60 per cent in Northern California sales and 35 per cent in the 11 southern counties.

"Briefly, the foregoing summary gives a good idea of the speed at which the industry is traveling this year in California," says the publication. "Good weather and reasonably steady shipments of cars from the east are two reasons which helped the distributors and dealers to pile up this remarkably high early season total of 17,344 sales.

"March has been the starting point in other years for high totals. In this case, however, a month free from rain in most sections of the state started the buyers out quicker than usual.

"At this writing, the nineteenth of the month, enough registrations have rolled into the office in March to vouch as authentic the statement that March will shatter all previous sales totals. It will, unquestionably, unless a slump in trade occurs between now and the last day of the month.

"Northern California, judging by its record on a percentage basis, did better in February than it has for quite a period back. The south's marginal increase is still much bigger than the northern territory both in trucks and passenger cars.

"At the pace the state is now setting the prediction seems likely of fulfillment for a 200,000 year in California."

MILEAGE BASIS IS NEW PLAN OF OAKLAND

The Oakland's new "Mileage Basis Plan," advancing a definite way to gauge motor car value, was introduced here today by Edgar and Hays, local agents for the Oakland. Booklets containing the points that determine value are available at the agency, Sixth street and Broadway.

Seven points, in particular, are specified, covering the parts that enter into cost of maintenance, and the mileage that each part should give without expense or attention.

In the Oakland, the manufacturers make the following points: Main bearing and connecting rod bearings should give a service of 40,000 miles plus. It is claimed the main crank shaft bearing will function properly for that number of miles without adjustment or replacement.

Valves, cylinders, pistons and rings, under proper handling, should give 15,000 miles or better. The Oakland gives a special written 15,000 mile guarantee against excess oil in the combustion chamber.

Gasoline mileage of 20 to 25 miles and tire mileage of 15,000 to 25,000 miles are possible because of certain features of construction employed in the Oakland, according to the manufacturers. Transmission, axles and frame should endure for the life of the car, the producers set forth in their claims that the Oakland is big value.

TELLS REASONS WHY AUTO TIRES BLOWOUT

"Many motorists believe that rim cutting of tires is an unfathomable mystery," says Ray Lyon, local distributor for Miller tires. "Underinflation usually is the cause but it has an ally in side sway.

"Whenever tires are not properly inflated, the body of the car is permitted to sway from side to side unnecessarily. This movement is aggravated in turning corners sharply. When the air pressure is below standard, the pulling on the side walls is excessive.

"The effect of the strain often breaks one or more plies of the fabric nearest the rim.

5. The load on a vehicle has little to do with its ability to stop because the retarding effect of the brakes increase with the load.

Slow Speed Fastest!

By far the most important discovery Swan has made pertains to the effect of automobile traffic on roadway capacity.

"The common impression is that the faster the speed the greater is the number of vehicles which can pass a point in a given length of time," says Swan. "This is true for quite low speeds. But after a certain speed has been maintained each unit of increased speed requires such an increased spacing of machines that the roadway capacity is diminished."

At a uniform gait of 10 miles an hour, Swan has found, a third more vehicles will pass a given point for a given time than at a gait of 25 miles an hour. And as the speed increases, a lower number of vehicles will be found to pass the given point within the time limit.

For Easier Traffic

Swan concludes his findings with these suggestions:

"The frequency of major streets, their width and grade, the sharpness of street angles and curves, the radii for rounding corners, should be determined with reference to the physical characteristics of the automobile, the anticipated volume of traffic and the particular requirements of the ground. Acceleration, deceleration, necessary clearance for different speeds, engine power, gear ratio and turning radius, although comparatively new, are nevertheless fundamental considerations in successful thoroughfare planning.

"And when it comes to regulating traffic, separating fast from slow vehicles, imposing maximum and minimum speed limits, obliging traffic to round central standards at corners, stopping and starting traffic at intersections, they are controlling factors which, if ignored, will prove disastrous to the most mobile conditions of traffic."

GIVES REASONS FAVORING TIRE TAX

inches; a tax of 25 to 30 per cent on the cost of all tires up to and including 5 inch sizes, and from 50 to 75 per cent on larger tires, which would take in all the larger trucks.

"The tax could be collected by the dealer on the sale of a tire, or could be assessed by tax collectors. A check easily could be kept either way. If collected by a dealer, he could be furnished some kind of a seal to burn into tires, indicating the tax paid. If collection should be made by tax collector, a receipt should be given.

"The tire tax would place a charge on the trucks in proportion to the mileage they operate. Commercial companies who operate their trucks twenty-four hours a day would pay accordingly. A farmer, who uses a truck an hour or two a day, would be taxed only in proportion to his use of the highways. Another feature is that truckmen would be careful to keep tires inflated, and would not overload their trucks.

"I am presuming, of course, that under this plan all users of the roads would be compelled to use pneumatic tires."

TELLS HOW CAR BUYERS MAKE SELECTION

"It is a curious fact," J. W. Tubbs, manager of the Reid Motor company, local Buick distributor, said today, "that the things a man considers when he buys an automobile are not the things by which he judges it after he has bought it."

"For instance, a man comes in to see a car. He stands a few feet away and looks at it with half closed eyes for graceful lines and good proportion. Then he sits behind the wheel and imagines himself on the road. He tries the position of the wheel and the clutch and brake pedal. The width of the seats, the depth of the cushions, the grade of leather in the upholstery, all get their share of attention. Fittings and accessories sometimes assume large proportions in the buyer's mind.

"After the car has been bought all of this is forgotten, however. Spark-plugs, carbon, bearings, acceleration, economy and such things become the most important, for regardless of the reason a man buys a car he judges it entirely by the mechanical performance after he has bought it.

"For this reason the dealer from whom the car is bought is an important item to consider when buying. A good dealer continues his interest in a car as long as it is on the read. He learns the needs of each driver and co-operates with him to keep his car in the best condition to meet those needs. Careful buyers are learning this and are informing themselves of the dealer's ability to care for the cars he sells."

ORDERS KEEP AUTO FACTORY HUMMING

The demand for Willys-Knight and Overland cars has hit a point where the Willys-Overland factory at Toledo, Ohio, is scarcely able to keep one jump ahead of the insistent call for cars and more cars, according to George Ash of the Overland Santa Ana company.

By the early part of April, the factory will have built 50,000 cars, or approximately one-half of the number built during 1922," Ash said today. "Despite numerous devices whereby the efficiency of the factory force has been increased to a point, where one man is now building 2.55 cars to one car last year, the company is experiencing serious difficulties in getting a sufficient number of skilled and unskilled workers, to speed up production to the necessary stage.

"Training schools are now established at the Toledo plant and raw recruits after an examination are put into classes where specialized instruction will fit them to take a position on the regular force, soon as they can possibly be prepared.

"At the present time, nearly 11,000 men are employed at the Toledo works, and this number should be increased immediately to 16,000 men."

It was officially announced today by Earl Matthews of the Orange County Ignition works, the official Bosch service station in this city, that the Rickenbacker car will hereafter be equipped with Bosch starting, lighting and battery ignition, and that Hudson and Essex cars will continue during 1923 to use electrical equipment of the same make.

The Rickenbacker will be equipped with the standard "4" Bosch generator, the "4" Bosch starting motor and the compensating battery ignition system, which has automatic spark control. Compensating ignition is also used on both Hudson and Essex cars, and each is equipped with the standard Bosch "5" generator and the "4" starting motor."

Oakland Asks You to Measure Value on a Known

Mileage Basis

Confronted with so many different motor cars—particularly in the light six field—it is mighty comforting for the motor car buyer to have such a definite and accurate standard for measuring motor car quality as that afforded by Oakland's new "Mileage Basis" plan!

With this plan, you can determine, in advance, the actual number of satisfying miles an Oakland Six will deliver free from repairs or replacements.

Features of The Plan

An Oakland 6-44 will travel at least 40,000 miles before its main crankshaft or connecting rod bearings require attention.

Its special steel alloy valves will not need grinding short of 15,000 miles. It will average from 20 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline and from 15,000 to 25,000 miles per set of tires.

Moreover, in addition to these things, Oakland continues its special written, 15,000 mile engine performance guarantee.

Let us explain the complete details—and then weigh these Oakland figures in the light of your own past experience with cars of other makes. You will then appreciate what high quality of materials and what precise workmanship are built into the Oakland "6".

This, scholars, is a Cop.

A cop is the guardian of law and order. He regulates the traffic and sees that motorists do the things necessary to avoid accidents.

When they disobey the rules and regulations the cop will pinch the motorists and take them to the judge.

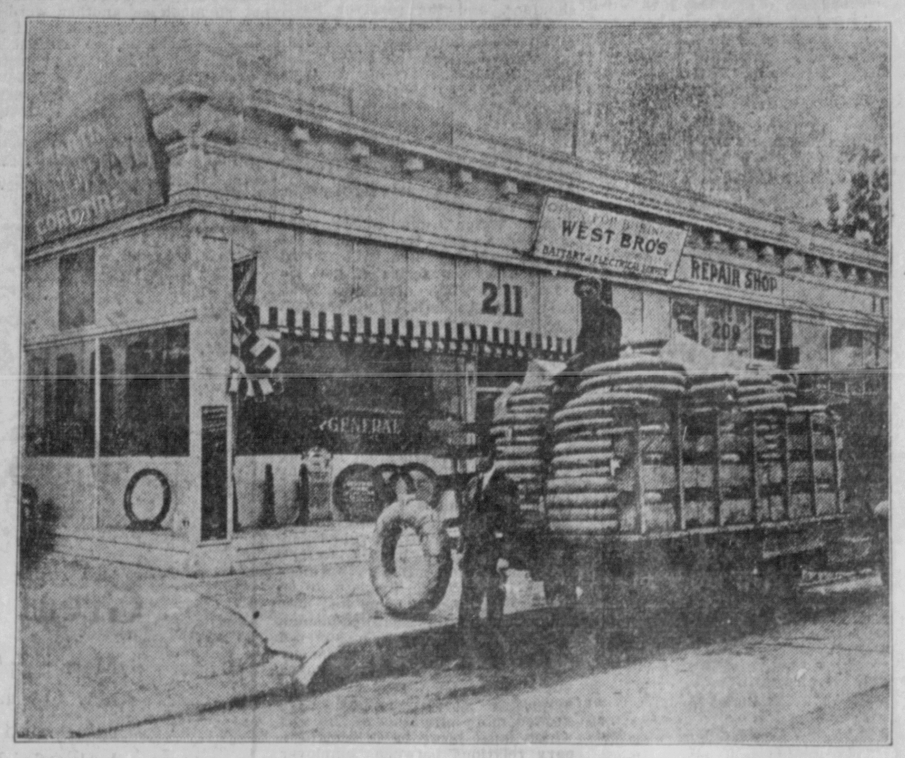

Then they will get soaked.

The moral of this is, scholars: that you should obey the traffic regulations then you will not get pinched by the cop.

SANTA ANA AGENT RECEIVES MAMMOTH TIRE CONSIGNMENT

Second big shipment of General Cord tires received here by L. E. Martin, since the first of the year. Martin is standing at the rear of the truck.

SALES OF STAR CARS IN BIG INCREASE

James Appleby, of the Appleby Motor company, distributor for Durant and Star cars, today was happy in receipt of a letter from the Star factory congratulating him on the position the Star already has attained in Orange county.

Appleby pointed out sales of the new car in Orange county have exceeded the anticipation of himself and the management of the factory.

"In my opinion," Appleby said, "the sales here would have been larger had it not been that the small margin of profit on a Star car would not permit accepting cars in trade except at a figure that would not have been fair to the owner of a used car."

Appleby declared that establishment of the Certified Motor Car market by the Orange County Automobile Dealers' association in Santa Ana, Fullerton and Anaheim has given many prospective buyers of Star automobiles an opportunity to dispose of their used cars at an advantage.

"Since the markets have opened, the sale of Star cars has nearly doubled," said Appleby. "This is due, to the fact that owners can get a greater amount for their used cars than had been offered in many cases by dealers who sell the lower priced makes of cars. I am of the opinion that the public will have an increasing confidence in the markets, as they are not operated for the purpose of profit, but as a public market in every sense and as a place where that portion of the public who have cars to sell can meet that portion of the public who wish to buy good used cars.

"Roy Wilson, who is manager, really is the trusted agent of the public. He acts as a referee or judge, between the buyer and the seller, insuring the man who owns a car its full value and to the buyer a satisfactory value for the full amount invested."

L. E. Martin today pointed to the receipt of a second large shipment of General Cord tires since the first of the year as an evidence that the line is popular in this community. The two big shipments have been supplemented with smaller consignments necessary to keep the stock up to the standard set by the owner for his tire shop.

"My seven months' experience in the tire business here has convinced me that the Santa Ana automobile public demands quality rather than price when it comes to the matter of purchasing tires," said Martin today.

"The General Cord tire is made at Akron, Ohio, by a company managed by men who have been connected with the rubber industry for a great many years. The first General tire was made eight years ago. The company builds to quality and not down to price. The high esteem in which General Cord tires and tubes is held today is the reflection of the quality they possess."

PREDICTS RADIO AS THEFT BROADCASTER

With the radio offering a quick service for spreading of information, Earl Matthews, of the Orange County Ignition works, today predicted that the time is not far distant when automobile dealers and police will be equipped with radios for receiving daily a complete list of cars stolen within a radius of several hundred miles of their business locations.

"The notable feature about the radiophone, as compared with the telegraph or telephone, is that it sends its message everywhere within the radius of the sending station, so that anyone who has installed the proper arrangements of coils or batteries, or some of the many complete sets we have, can receive all the information sent out."

They have proved that Jewett Six will stand hard service under all conditions. Because it is the sturdiest car of its size or price—whether four or six. Because it weighs 2805 pounds—200 pounds more than "light sixes." Because it has a husky six-inch frame, with wide top flange, four rugged cross-braces, and high-duty Paige-Timken axles, front and rear.

Jewett owners have proved its wonderful reserve power, as well. Power that soft roads and stubborn hills never tax. Because Jewett has a Paige-built motor of fifty horsepower that literally fills the hood! The largest built for a medium-sized six. Running at moderate speed gives it long-lived dependability, free from usual wear.

These 25,000 owners have proved Jewett outperforms any car of its class. Because no car this size has 249 cubic inches piston displacement. Most power for weight within $200 of its price. In spite of its husky strength Jewett carries but 11½ pounds of weight to each inch piston displacement, where comparable cars carry 14 to 16. The answer is easy!

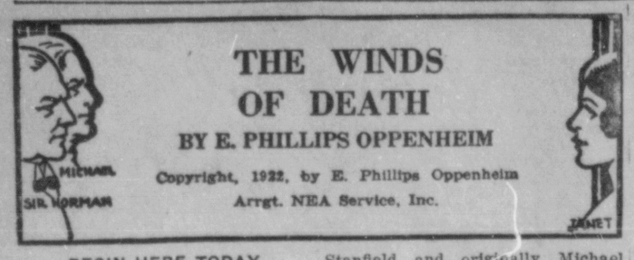

They have proved, these owners, that Jewett doesn't overheat or get noisy. The hollow crankshaft high-pressure oiling system forces 2 gallons of oil per minute to all main and connecting-rod bearings. This best-oiled motor in a medium-sized car stays smooth and young.

These 25,000 owners, won in one short year from its announcement, have proved that Jewett Six has amazing pep and pickup. Accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds. Little wonder Jewett has shattered hill-climbing records the country over! Two miles an hour in traffic to 60 on the highway—in high gear. Flexibility that pleases all.

Finally, these 25,000 owners have proved Jewett unrivaled for easy riding and substantial comfort. Extra long springs, deep roomy cushions, wide seats, and substantial construction tell why. And Jewett has handling ease unequaled except in the Paige.

What these 25,000 owners have proved for themselves we shall be glad to prove to you. At your first convenience, see the big-six value Jewett gives at

THE WINDS OF DEATH

BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, Saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and able accomplice. In many exploits Michael escapes arrest by taking desperate chances.

While Sir Norman is living at his country house, Greyes Manor, he is shot at from ambush and narrowly escapes death. After a series of suspicious "accidents," Greyes is convinced that his enemy, Sayers, is again in England. The police appeal to Sir Norman to help run to earth his arch enemy, whom they believe is working at the head of a dangerous gang.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Sir Norman Continues

"Personally," was the confident reply, "I don't think there is the slightest doubt but that he is the man who has passed at different times as Thomas Pugsley, James Stanfield and originally Michael Sayers. He has vanished from the face of the earth, so far as New York police have ascertained; but they obtained possession of an uncompleted letter which he must have been typing at the time of the raid. The first page he probably destroyed or took with him. The second page refers to you. Here is a copy."

Rimmington withdrew from his pocketbook a halfsheet of paper and passed it to me. I read it slowly, word for word:

Things here have come to their natural end. The last fortnight has been productive, but there is danger in any further prosecution of our energies. There is only one man who stands in the way of my return to London. You know well of whom I speak. I wait day by day for your news of him, and hope to hear of no more blunders. See that the woman you know of, too, is carefully watched. She may be as loyal as she seems, but there are moments when I have my doubts. If N. G. can be disposed of—

"Interesting," I remarked, "very! To whom was the letter addressed?"

"To a firm of leather-brokers in Bermondsey," Rimmington replied, "and it was written on the notepaper of a firm of hide-brokers in New York."

"The letter is from our friend, right enough," I decided. "There have been two attempts upon my life within the last two days, and I have just sent away a secretary who was keeping a careful note of my doings."

We talked for an hour or more, and arrived without difficulty at a mutual understanding. Rimmington undertook to send a good man down from Scotland Yard to make inquiries in the neighborhood, and he promised also to trace my late secretary's antecedents through the office from which she had come. In the meantime he begged me to return to London with him. The suggestion is not at first altogether attractive to me.

"I don't like being driven away from my own home," I grumbled. "Besides, there will be nothing for me to do in London at this time of the year."

"Greyes," he said earnestly, "listen to me: You can play golf round London, and get on with your book. You are far safer there than you would be in an unprotected neighborhood like this. But apart from that altogether, we want you up there. This wave of crime in New York had ceased. Paris, too, is quieter. The Chief is profoundly impressed with the belief that it is because operations are being transferred to London."

"When do you want me to come?" I asked.

"Back with me tonight," he answered promptly.

* * *

I had told Rimmington of all the material things which had happened to me down at Greyes Manor, but I had not spoken of that curious sense of impending evil which had clouded my days, and the prescience of which had been so remarkably verified. We were scarcely crossing the first stretch of Exmoor, however, when the memory of it came back to me, and with the memory an overpowering return of the feeling itself. I filled a pipe, stretched myself out in a corner of the car, and set myself to fight this grim ogre of fear.

It was no easy matter, however. All through the night I was haunted with fancies. The gorse-bushes on the moors seemed like crouching men, the whistle from a distant railway station a warning of impending danger. In a small village before we arrived at Taunton, a man stood in the open doorway of his house, looking out at the night. He scanned us as we passed, and turned away. Through the uncurtained window of his sitting-room I saw a telephone on his table.

At Wiveliscombe, a man with a motorcycle stood silent as we passed. He leaned forward as though to see the number of our car. In ten minutes he raced past us, his powerful engine making the night hideous with its unsilenced explosions. Across Salisbury Plain, as we drew near Stonehenge, a cruelly cold wind was blowing. We drank from a flask which I had brought, and wrapped ourselves up a little closer. At some crossroads, high up in the bleakest part, another car was waiting, its lights out, its appearance sinister. We passed it, however, at fifty miles an hour, and the man who was its sole occupant scarcely looked at us.

We passed through Amesbury, up the long rise to Andover, through Basingstoke, and settled down into a steady fifty miles an hour along wonderful roads. The moon was paling now, and there were signs of dawn; right ahead of us was a thin streak of silver in the clouds, slowly changing to a dull purple. Before we had realized it, we were in the outskirts of London, our pace gradually reduced, but still racing through the somber twilight.

At Isleworth, just as we had passed under the railway arch, I felt the brakes suddenly applied and thrust my head out of the window. We had come almost to a standstill, stopped by a stalwart policeman who, notebook in hand, had been talking to the occupant of a touring-car drawn up by the side of the road. He came up to the open window.

"Are you gentleman going through to London?" he inquired.

"We are," I told him. "What can we do for you?"

The words had scarcely left my lips when I knew that we were in a trap. I realized it just in time to save my life. I struck with all my force at the ugly little black revolver which was thrust almost into my face. There was a report, a sharp pain at the top of my shoulder, and the revolver itself slipped from the man's crushed fingers. I was within an ace of having him by the throat, but he just eluded me. The touring car was now passing us slowly, and he leaped into it, leaving his helmet lying in the road. A third man, who seemed to rise up from underneath our car, tore along and jumped in behind, and they shot forward, traveling at a most astonishing pace.

Rimmington shouted to our chauffeur through the tube with the idea of pursuing them. We started forward with a series of horrible bumps, and came almost immediately to a standstill. I sprang out. Both our back tires had been stabbed through with some sharp instrument. In the distance, the other car had rounded the corner, and with screaming siren, was racing away for London.

Janet Takes Up the Story:

It was toward the middle of October when I heard from my husband for the first time in many months. For a long time my luck had been atrocious. I lost the greater part of the money paid me for the recovery of Mrs. Trumperton-Smith's diamonds by an investment in a small millinery business which I discovered, too late, to be already moribund. I had lost post after post for the same maddening reason. My looks had suffered through privation, and my shabby clothes were unbecoming enough; but if I had been Helen of Troy herself, I could scarcely have evoked more proposals of the sort which must bring to an end ordinary relations between employer and employe. My good resolutions began to weaken. I had almost made up my mind to appeal for help in quarters which would necessarily have meant the end of my more or less honest life, when one morning a young man who looked like a bank clerk was ushered shamelessly by my landlady into my bed-sitting-room. I was folding up a coat which I was going to take to the pawnbroker. I was not in a very pleasant frame of mind, and I was furious with my landlady.

"What do you want?" I asked coldly. "This is not a room in which I can receive visitors."

"My visit is one of business, madam," he answered. "Are you Mrs. Janet Stanfield?"

"I am generally known by that name," I replied.

He opened his pocketbook and counted out two hundred pounds in bank notes upon the table. I watched him spellbound.

"With the compliments of the bank manager," he said as he took up his hat and turned away.

"Who sent the notes?" I called out after him. "What bank is it from?"

"The bank of faith, hope and charity," he answered with a smile. "Good morning!"

He was gone before I could get out so much as another word. I took up the notes greedily. I had done my best to live without my husband's help ever since certain news as to his doings in America had reached me. For some reason which I did not myself altogether understand, I had, I thought, cut myself off from any association with him and his friends. Yet in my present straits my attempt at independence seemed hopeless. The money was a necessity to me.

I paid my landlady, and made her a present of my dilapidated wardrobe. I possessed the art of knowing how and where to buy things, and before lunch-time that day I was installed in a small flat in Albemarle Street wearing clothes which were in keeping with my surroundings and with an evening dress and cloak in reserve. My neck and throat and fingers were bare, for I had seen nothing of my jewelry since our ill-omened adventure in Paris.

DO YOU KNOW WHY THE GEAR-SHIFT IS DIFFERENT?

The design of Dodge Brothers gear-shift takes into consideration the natural inclinations of the driver.

To start, you throw the lever forward. To reverse, you pull the lever backward. And when the car is running in high gear—which is about ninety per cent of the time—the lever is in a forward position, out of the way, where it does not interfere with passengers, robes, or luggage.

Moreover, the transmission, developed and patented by Dodge Brothers, is so designed that the countershaft—used in intermediate speeds and in reverse—is disconnected when the car is in high. There are no gears in mesh. Power is transmitted directly from clutch to rear axle.

This exclusive feature prevents the loss of power through friction, reduces gear-box noises and eliminates a vast amount of wear.

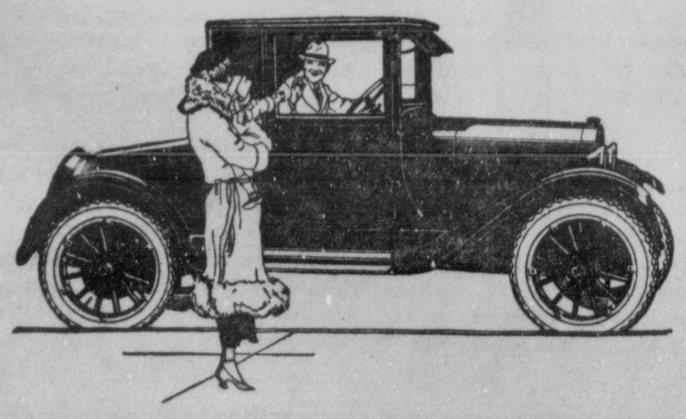

That is why the gear-shift of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is different.

A PUZZLE A DAY

S A W

The professor in phonetics asked his pupils to indicate by letters or other symbols that summer was late in coming. The best formula was the one shown above. Can you read the message?

Yesterday's answer:

No one can find the subject of this riddle;
All their search for it will be in vain.
Yet break it, just before the middle
And in our very midst it will be plain.

The word represented by the above verse is "Nowhere." If it is broken just before the middle, it becomes "Now here."

BEACH GIRLS ROLL UP 100 TO 8 SCORE

(Special to The Register)

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 24.—Members of the girls basketball team of Huntington Beach high school consider their chances of winning the championship of the Orange county high school league are much better as the result of the defeat this week of the San Juan Capistrano girls by the huge score of 100 to 8.

After the first half of the first inning the Huntington Beach team retired in favor of the second string players who proceeded to do as good a job of scoring as the varsity.

It was the second victory for the local girls, the team having defeated Tustin a week ago 19 to 16. Last year Anaheim was the only team Huntington Beach did not defeat and inasmuch as Fullerton has already beaten Anaheim and last year Huntington Beach beat Fullerton badly the players of Captain Lille Price feel that their chances for the championship this year are excellent. Captain Price and Manager Wardwell have been working their charges hard this week in contemplation with the games next week.

The members of the team are as follows: Ida Shupe, catcher; Katheryn Thomas pitcher; Irene Danton, first base; Thelma McKinney, second base; Geneva Fuller, third base; Sibyl Holkamp, Elizabeth McKinney, shortstops; Frances Casad, center fielder; Allene Rowley, left fielder; Lillie Price, right fielder; Cecil Whitsel, Salone Van Barklon, Olive Harding, Alice Hill, Helen Phillips, substitutes.

Laws of nature and the exaction of years will compel Mrs. Molla Mallory to step down some day from the throne she has been occupying as the queen of the American tennis court. That day may come soon and it may be delayed for years. In the case of Mrs. Mallory it depends mostly on the speed which which some youthful star will be developed.

* * *

Physical deterioration should not bring to a premature termination her long reign as the best woman player in the United States, as she is far more rugged and is stronger than the average American-born girl. Possessed of the finesse and the repertoire of Mlle. Suzan Lenglen, the "Marvelous Molla" might be able to her own even with the great Tilden. She is not only stronger than any other woman player in the country, but she has more endurance than Billy Johnston and a good many other men stars.

Because Molla made such a poor showing in the early rounds of the Monte Carlo tournament is no just cause for organizing the funeral procession. It seems that she won and that ought to be the main thing.

* * *

Molla has only one cause for worry, if she takes her title seriously, and that worry is Helen Wills, the California school girl marvel.

Just as sure as anything is sure, little Helen is going to be the champion some day and if her development in the next five years keeps apace with the past three years, she will be as good as the dashing Suzanne.

"Little Wills" may not win the title this coming summer. She has a whale of a chance, but if it is not to be this year, it is not very far away.

* * *

When talking about his coming match with Jack Dempsey, which he insists is coming this summer, Joe Beckett, the champion knocked-out champion of England, was quoted in a London paper as saying:

"Many people think it will be a walkover for Dempsey. They can have their own opinions. There is no man in the world I fear. When you measure us up physically, there is not much in it."

If you can figure what Joey meant, bet on it.

POLY DEFEATED BY HUNTINGTON BEACH

Seltzer's Circuit Blow In Third Spells Defeat for Local Team

Accorded great support and doing a lot of nifty work himself Clyde Seltzer, Huntington Beach high school pitcher, yesterday afternoon chucked Orin Neff's crippled Santa Ana high school baseball team into a 4 to 3 defeat in the second league game of the season for the local aggregation.

The Poly men nicked Seltzer for eight safe blows. They got men on bases nearly every inning. They were always menacing. But when he got in danger, Seltzer pulled up his belt, adjusted his cap and blew them past the Santa Ana sluggers.

A terrific clout in the third round by another member of the Seltzer family, Jimmy, the Huntington Beach catcher, was really the blow that spelled defeat for "Barney" Le Bard, Santa Ana's twirler.

Seltzer Hits Homer

With two in the bucket, Koontz had lifted a long fly to left that fell safe, Koontz pulling up at third base. J. Seltzer smashed one of Le Bard's fast ones to the same spot and the ball rolled down a hill way out in the left pasture. Before Howell retrieved the sphere, Seltzer and Koontz had crossed the rubber.

The beach team tallied one in the first inning on two Santa Ana errors and made their last score in the sixth when Hotlkamp's drive eluded Thoele and went for three bags. Holtkamp scored on C. Seltzer's infield out.

Poly Scores Twice

Santa Ana scored twice in the sixth frame. Thoele was safe on Bundschuh's muff, Brown beat out a bunt and Bickford's infield single choked the sacks. Le Bard popped out and Jabs whiffed but Johnson's drive to left scored Thoele and Brown. Howell fouled out.

The final Santa Ana tally came in the eighth when with one away, Le Bard doubled to center and came home a minute later when Jabs smashed a two-bagger to the same place. Johnson and Howell both whiffed.

AMERICAN ATHLETES HELP OXFORD TEAM DEFEAT CAMBRIDGE

QUEEN'S CLUB, LONDON, March 24.—With the help of American stars, Oxford University won the Queen's Club track and field meet with Cambridge here by a score of seven events to four.

Tevis Huhn, the former Princeton athlete, won the 220 yard low hurdles and finished third in the 120 yard hurdles.

F. K. Brown, former Washington athlete, won the shotput and A. I. Reese of Nebraska won second place.

"Bill" Stevenson, former Princeton star, and one time American national champion at a quarter mile, finished second on the 440 yard run.

D. R. Michener, former Canadian athlete, won the pole vault with E. M. Dunbar, Worcester, Mass., second.

The broad jump was won by H. M. Abrahams, the all-around Cambridge star, and Tevis Huhn, former Princeton athlete, third.

OXFORD WINS GREAT RACE

LONDON, March 24.—Oxford won the seventy-fifth annual Oxford-Cambridge crew race on the Thames today.

LONDON, March 24.—Thousands of Americans in the extensive colony here looked forward today to another victory in the second great British sport classic of the season.

Those who shrieked themselves hoarse and won heavily yesterday when Stephen Sanford's American colors finished first on Sergeant Murphy in the English Grand National Steeplechase were filled with just as much enthusiasm, for the Oxford crew in the seventy-fifth annual Oxford-Cambridge boat race.

Two American boys, Rhodes scholars, are the backbone and the main strength of the Oxford crew. W. P. Mellen, New York City, a 155 pound youngster, is the stroke and is regarded as the best that ever held the seat in an Oxford shell. Keith Kane, the great Harvard football and rowing star, is in number four position.

Despite the uncertain weather conditions, both banks of the river were crowded hours before the time for the start of the varsity battle.

The Prince of Wales who was a member of the party in the umpires' launch, was foremost among the elite of the royal, political and professional circles who had gathered for the race.

TROJANS, CARDS IN BIG TRACK MEET AT ANGEL CITY TODAY

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Trojan and Cardinal tangle this afternoon on the cinder path at Bovard Field, with rooters for both institutions dead certain that each is going to win. Dopsters have the thing figured down to fine points, but the fine points in each case favor the dopester's choice. A close meet is expected.

"Dink" Templeton with his squad greatly weakened by numerous scholastic "kick outs" last December, nevertheless has brought south a squad which will in all probability gather enough points to win, although the Trojans may come through unexpectedly in an event or two, and walk off with the victory.

Charlie Paddock will do his stuff, and if he is pressed is expected to equal his world's record of 9 3-5 seconds in the 100 yard dash.

Smith and Morrill starred for the Grovers, each hammering the delivery of Pitcher Miller of Tustin for four hits. The score:

THE CHARTER AND THE RECALL

At least two opponents of the proposed city charter offer as a reason why it should be defeated the expression of their respective personal opinions to the effect that it virtually nullifies the initiative, referendum and recall.

For the correct information of voters on this point, we quote from the proposed charter as follows:

ARTICLE IV.
RECALL

Sec. 1. Every elective officer of the City of Santa Ana, whether elected by popular vote or appointed to fill a vacancy, is subject to recall and removal from office by the qualified electors of the city.

The procedure to effect such removal from office shall be as follows:

Recall Petition.

Sec. 2. A petition signed by qualified electors equal in number to fifteen per centum of the entire number of registered electors at the last preceding general municipal election demanding the election of a successor of the officer to be removed, containing a statement of the reasons for this demand, shall be addressed to the Council, presented to and filed with the Clerk.

The petition may request such election to be held as a special municipal election or at the next general municipal election.

No petition for the recall of any officer of the City of Santa Ana shall be circulated or exposed for the signature of electors except at not exceeding three public places in the City of Santa Ana, previously designated by the Clerk in writing.

At the same time and place, there shall also be circulated and exposed for the signature of electors, and with equal opportunity for being signed, a protest against the recall of the officer or officers sought to be removed, and unless the number of signatures upon the recall petition shall exceed the number of signatures upon the protest, then no election for the recall of the officer or officers shall be had.

The Clerk shall not receive or file a petition for the recall of any officer or officers of the City of Santa Ana unless the requisite number of signatures (and in excess of the number of signatures upon the protest) shall be obtained thereon within thirty days from the date of the written designation by the Clerk of the places where the same may be circulated.

WEST FIFTH STREET BONDS

The re-paving of West Fifth street has been delayed a long, long time too long. No one can or will deny this statement.

The numerous good reasons for the delay need not now be discussed. The fact that we face is that West Fifth street ought to be paved without any further delay. The pavement has gone to pieces, and when the pavement of an important city street goes to pieces a situation that needs a remedy exists.

A few years ago West Fifth street was paved with a pavement that seemed adequate to the needs of the traffic of that day. This street, like hundreds of others, was not strong enough to meet the strain put upon it by the truck traffic that developed.

Recognizing the fact that the street is in a most distressing condition, and acknowledging the reason why it is in that condition, we pass to the question, "What are we going to do about it?"

"Pave it," is the answer. It is the only answer that can be sensibly made. The street cannot be abandoned. No one wants to do anything to that streets but to re-pave it.

There is just one point at issue, and that is, "Who is to pay the bill?"

The City of Santa Ana, through the proposal to bond itself for $30,000, is volunteering to pay one-third of the bill. And that is a fair proposition. The city has helped in paving North Main street and East First street because they are main thoroughfares and because their pavements were broken down by inter-city traffic. By carrying the $30,000 bonds, the city will express its willingness to take its share of the burden of paving West Fifth just as it has on North Main and East First streets.

While the western part of the city is particularly interested in the improvement of this street, the proposal is one that interests every portion of the city. In a business way, Santa Ana has long suffered by reason of the condition of this street. Thousands of our residents have been inconvenienced in travel. Scores of automobiles have been damaged.

A plan for getting the street paved has been laid down by the city authorities. A part of that plan calls for the passage of $30,000 bonds, the fifth item on the ballot to be used at Thursday's election. This opportunity for getting a much needed job done ought not to be passed by. The vote should be unmistakably yes.

ANOTHER STORAGE PROJECT

The plan to construct a dam in the Trabuco canyon for the impounding of the winter waters of the Trabuco creek has aroused widespread interest in the county. The project is one that is in keeping with the rapidly growing opinion that the future of Orange county is inevitably wrapped up in the conservation of water.

There is only one view possible as to the value of the water. Its importance is known. What it has means to this county is visible in its thousands of acres of oranges, lemons and walnuts. These same orchards are the guarantee of what water can do for areas in the county not yet reached by water.

The first irrigation done in what is now Orange county was done around the Mission at San Juan Capistrano. It was half a century after the founding of the mission before Bernardo Yorba dug his ditch for conducting water from the Santa Ana river to lands on the north side of the Santa Ana river at what is now known as Yorba.

Systematic irrigation by later settlers dates back 1857 with the organization of irrigating plans by the founders of Anaheim, well named the Mother Colony, but it remained for the activities of the 70s definitely to mould the development of the Santa Ana valley. In that decade, A. B. Chapman and Andrew Glassell, who laid out the townsite of Orange, took water from the Santa Ana river and carried it to Orange. Their project, in 1877, was enlarged into the organization of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company for the irrigation of areas from above Olive to include Santa Ana and Tustin. In that decade, too, the Anaheim Union Water company, formed by interests using gravity water of the Santa Ana river on lands in the Anaheim, Placentia and Fullerton sections, was formed. At about the same time, the Serrano Water company and the John T. Carpenter Water company began their use of the water of the Santiago creek. For many years water from the Trabucoo and San Juan creeks has been diverted upon areas at San Juan Capistrano.

These projects all relied upon gravity flow. In later years the gravity flow has been augmented by some of the companies with water from pumping plants.

Following the use of gravity water a quarter of a century passed before the era of pumping plant development resulted in the installation of thousands of pumps in wells scattered over a wide area in the county, many of them for the irrigation of lands not supplied with gravity water.

The time has come when ordinary gravity flow and pumps are at their peak. Future increases must rest largely upon conservation—conservation of water both for surface and underground supplies. In recent months there has been much discussion about plans for increasing both. For the surface supply, the avenue for securing a greater supply of water lies in storage of water that otherwise would go to the sea. For the underground supply, the avenue lies in the spreading of surplus water upon waste areas.

Plans for a reservoir in the Santiago canyon have been under consideration for several years, and it is with much satisfaction that those who are interested in it view the present bright prospects for a realization of their dreams in that regard.

ALASKA IS BECKONING

Alaska beckons once more as a land of opportunity. The gold rush days with their incredible handships and uncertain rewards are over, but today through the completion of the Alaska railroad hundreds of square miles of Alaskan territory have been made accessible for development along all the lines of modern industry. The gold which answered to the miner's pick was as nothing to the wealth about to be produced.

Few people "south of 53", realize what the opening of the railway means, but here is what Scott Bone, governor of Alaska, says of it:

"The importance of the railroad project cannot be overestimated. It opens interior Alaska, making accessible vast resources previously beyond reach and transforming valleys hitherto a wilderness. Unprecedented winter travel bespeaks changing conditions and the dawn of a new day and brighter era."

Governor Bone has appealed to the territorial legislature to build roads and trails complementing the railway, and to institute some sort of colonization project to encourage homesteading and permanent settlements in the new areas. He has suggested that Congress be memorialized by the legislature to make land grants to Alaska World War veterans to start the tide.

With or without government aid, here are new fields for pioneer blood to conquer. Interior Alaska today is not so far from any part of the United States as were Oregon and California from the East and Middle West when the emigrant trains set their faces toward the setting sun. Neither will the business of developing the new territory be fraught with any such hardships, thanks to improvements and inventions in every field involved.

Prevalence of Slang

Stockton Record.

The first thing the child of an alien absorbs from American street life and the life of the public schools is their roughness, their cheapness. The first thing the foreigner learns of the English language in Yankee land is its slang. He does this even if he is a cultivated foreigner. Its crispness, its aptness, its every-where-ness fascinate him. But he knows enough to use it with discretion, as does the fairly educated American adult. Children, one regrets to say, are inclined to make slang their chief vehicle of expression. Even when the parents use good English and teachers take pains to instruct and to correct, the language of the playground, of the street and of the crowd makes the strongest appeal to the growing child until he is old enough to be ashamed of it and to aim at correct usage. The same thing is true about behavior. Freedom and flippancy make the first appeal. Conservatism and gentler manners come later.

Clarke Is Re-Elected

Redlands Facts.

E. P. Clarke, of Riverside, editor of the Press of that city, has been re-elected president of the State Board of Education. Mr. Clarke gives to this work the results of a well trained and well informed mind. Doubtless he enjoys it. At least he realizes the good work done. The compensation for the work is so totally inadequate his labors cannot be looked at from any other standpoint than that of a patriotic service. And this paper is glad he is willing to continue, despite the wave of economy which shuts off some of the worth while activities of his department. Indeed, Mr. Clarke is not one that declaims against the budget; he thinks the Governor has done his best and he is willing to try on the less expensive basis.

He Refuses to Grow Old

Robert J. Jessup, 71 years old, is a student at the University of California. He is planning to take up post-graduate work after he gets his degree. His ambition is to get into the Spanish department of some California bank and then to work up to a position of responsibility. Jessup is a graduate of Yale, but believes that study and association with youth are the greatest things in the world for renewing youth.

A lot of people in this world would be ready to lie down and die at Jessup's age. Most men would at least have retired from active business. This man scouts any such thought, says he is young enough to do worth-while work and insists that his grandfather was a hard-working man at the age of 104.

It Stays On the Books

San Bernardino Sun.

The wayfaring man had supposed that when a law is declared unconstitutional, that would be the last of the law. But it isn't. On the contrary, the law remains on the books just the same until somebody repeals it, and the legislative counsel, who is the attorney empowered to advise legislators, put bills into proper form and keep the legal formalities as straight as possible, announces that there are anywhere from 700 to 1000 laws on the books in California that the courts have declared unconstitutional, but which have never been repealed. Naturally, one would think that if the lawmakers would devote one session to clearing out the dead-wood in the law books, instead of trying to adopt so many new ones, it would improve the average of the status in the books and save a world of time for the attorneys.—San Bernardino Sun.

THE CITY MANAGER

Simplicity Keynote Of City Government

BY H. S. GILBERTSON

THIRD ARTICLE

(This is the third of 14 articles on the City-Manager plan., by H. E. Gilbertson of the National Municipal League).

In contrast to the order of things that admittedly prevails in most cities, the 200 towns that have adopted the city-manager plan, have made their city governments simple and understandable for the first time in at least two generations.

Like most successful evolutions, this one goes back to the past for some things which had been ill-advisedly abandoned and brings some old principles down to date to fit modern life.

The fathers of this country had no municipal problems, to be sure, but they had public affairs to be taken care of. They employed town meetings, in which the people could express themselves on important questions, but the carring out of the business was entrusted to a compact body of "selectmen"—a simple natural straight-forward arrangement.

In later days, when municipal business became more elaborate, somehow the idea grew up that government also must be complicated to cope with the new situation. Thereupon—exit popular control, enter the politician.

Little towns and big cities developed intricate governmental mechanism with artificial, meaningless divisions called wards, a mayor to do things and a council to keep him from doing them and perhaps an auditor and a treasurer, to make sure that the others did not run away with the cash.

Then, too, it was made to appear that municipal affairs were inseparable from the national government and that things would not be right at the city hall unless either the Republicans or the Democrats (which ever happened to be out) should be put back.

It made politics an intricate game that only professionals could play successfully! Professionals of every degree from the ward leader to the big boss!

The complicated machine kept on going after a fashion, but the real government, the invisible government which did things and had the real authority, was direct, simple and powerful. Only, alas, the public did not control it!

And so it has become clear through a bitter experience that popular control can be had only though getting away from the complexity of politics.

Simplicity—that's the gist of it. Everything that has to be popular has to be simple, whether it's a song, or an advertisement, or an idea—or a government!

It is beyond all question that far more people are politically active and effective under the manager plan, than under any other. More people register at the poles decisions that are all their own. Fewer shut their eyes and accept partisan dictation.

Let us get the outline clear:

1. The People. Their job is easy: only the council, clerk, treasurer and recorder. Never more than eight to be chosen at any one time. That's the so-called short ballot idea.

No national or state issues to be settled on the same day. No political machines necessary to make up a ticket when the list of offices is so short. Any group may nominate its candidate by petition. That's the nonpartisan ballot feature.

If the city councilmen go against the people's wishes, they may be "recalled" to private life; likewise clerk, treasurer and recorder.

If the council passes a measure which a respectable minority dislikes, it may be submitted to the whole people for approval through the "referendum."

If they fail to act, a similar body of citizens may appeal over their heads to the people through the initiative.

2. The Council. It has all the powers of the municipality, subject to the one condition, that it must employ them through the organization provided in the charter. The idea is called "Unification of Powers"—no division of responsibility between equals—no "passing the buck" around a circle—no baffling of the public by obscurity of authority or legal piffle.

No matter what happens, the council has the power to fix it.

3. The City Manager. He is appointed by the council, serves at its pleasure, gives full time, heads the administration, appoints his subordinates.

Simple, straight-forward, all the way through. Straight lines all the way from the people to the lowest public servant. In the next installment we shall tell how the whole movement started.

The Mummied Priestess

(Written for The Register by Alice Peterson)

The story published recently in the Register of the mummied priestess of Amen-Ra, whose spirit-vengeance for the violation of her tomb in Thebes was wreaked upon all who were in any way concerned with the removal of her mummy to the British Museum in London, recalls a curious experience that the writer had there, in 1912, while visiting in London.

Having read of the mysterious calamities that befell those who took charge of the mummy in its journey and installation in the British museum, published repeatedly in the American newspapers at that time, I determined if the opportunity of a trip abroad presented itself, to go to the British Museum and see for myself if there was any foundation for the story. The denial of this strange tale of the ancient priestess of Amen-Ra, by the present keeper of the Egyptian antiquities of the museum, Sir Wallis Budge, brings this experience to mind.

On my way to the museum I entered a curio store to buy a little silver charm, as a memento, and selected a tiny mummy-case with a miniature mummy inside. Strangely enough, the jeweler mentioned the very subject uppermost in my mind, that of the malevolent mummied priestess in the museum. And he stated that there had been so many hair-raising stories connected with it and its evil powers that the museum authorities had removed the mummy, leaving only the empty coffin-case. But before the body was taken away it was photographed, and when the picture was developed the face was revealed as that of a beautiful young woman.

This fantastic tale from a complete stranger made me more eager than ever to investigate its truth.

In the museum I sought an attendant in the Mummy-rooms and asked if there was such an exhibit there, describing the case and asking to be directed to it. To my surprise the man declined to do so. I told him that I had come all the way from America to see it, and finally, after considerable urging, he gave me the number, 51255, and with an on-your-own-head-be-it manner turned on his heel and walked away, leaving me to hunt it out for myself. After a long and rather gruesome search, I finally found it. In a glass enclosure rested a beautifully decorated mummy-case, evidently that of a person of distinction. It was empty. The body had been removed. And against the coffin stood the photograph that the curio man had spoken of. The face was clearly outlined with typical Egyptian features, the body recumbent and swathed with mummy bandages. Why the attendant showed such reluctance to direct me to this particular exhibit has ever since remained a mystery to me. I could not find him afterwards to inquire.

The story of the pictured face of a "soul in torment" drawn on the mummy-case, as mentioned in the Register article, is a new angle in connection with this tale. There was no such drawing on the one I saw. It had the characteristic lines of the human form with a placid face painted on the head-shape. The "soul in torment" phase must be a latter-day embroidery.

Sleeping Sickness

"The U. S. Public Health Service has no statistics in regard to the prevalence of encephalitis lethargica, popularly known as sleeping sickness, that are sufficiently reliable and complete to warrant a statement as to the extent of the disease throughout the United States," says Surgeon General H. S. Cumming. "The disease is 'reportable' by physicians in comparatively few states: and in the larger part of the country the only data available are based on newspaper reports. Moreover, the disease is rather easy to confuse with some other diseases: and its prevalence is therefore likely to be unduly magnified. Thus, in an investigation made by Dr. H. F. Smith, of the Public Health Service, of the 1918-19 epidemic, 2° per cent of the supposed cases had to be excluded as being really cerebro-spinal meningitis, cerebral syphilis, brain abcess, tuberculous meningitis, epilepsy, poliomyelitis hysteria, or acute alcoholism.

"The disease appears to be only difficulty communicable. Not a single secondary case is known to have occurred in the immediate families of the patients reported in 1918-19, although some 900 persons were exposed.

"The fatality is rather high. Of the 159 cases studied by Smith death resulted in 46, or 29 per cent.

"The disease is slow in development and long in duration. The period of convalescence is variable: in some cases recovery is completed within two weeks after the subsidence of the acute symptoms: but in others it is prolonged and leaves its record on the mind on certain muscles and on the nerves of the cranium. The mental troubles, however, usually passes off eventually.

"The appearance of encephalitis in epidemic form has, except for one epidemic reported from Austria, always been preceded by an epidemic of influenza. Forty-six per cent of the cases studied by Dr. Smith had had influenza and 54 per cent had not. The influenza-attack rate has been ascribed to the lowering of the vitality of the patients by the influenza; but has also been explained as being really due to another attack of influenza which has invaded the central nervous system of the body. Whether or no there is any connection between the two diseases has not yet been established."

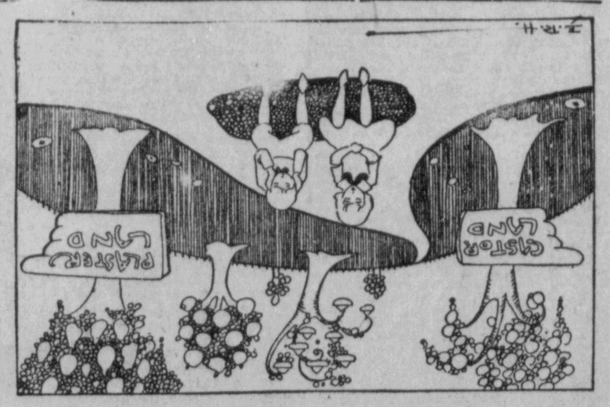

Happiness, and brightness in God's service, is a great gift. We are told to make melody in our hearts to the Lord. How can we do this unless we are bright and cheerful and serve him gladly? You must live the life, not merely do the work. Live a quiet, peaceable life with God, and the work will come out of it. You will do it simply, unconsciously.—H. Monsell.

Let us set ourselves with all our minds and all our hearts to the perfecting and working out of the methods of democracy, and the ending forever of the kings and emperors and the bands of adventurers, the traders and forestallers who have betrayed mankind into this morass of hate and blood, in which we flounder still.—H. G. Wells.

Adventures of the Twins

The Twins Get Lost

By Olive Roberts Barton

Sugar-Plum Land was full of good things. The road was made of fudge, the stones were rock-candy, the fences were taffy-bars, and the trees were stick-candy with all sorts of fruit on them.

One tree had ice cream cones on it, another tree grew nothing but sundaes—all sort of sundaes, hot fudge sundaes, marshmallow sundaes, maple-nut sundaes, tutti-frutti sundaes, Mexican sundaes, battleship sundaes, banana-split sundaes, strawberry sundaes and every other kind of sundaes that ever gave a boy or girl indigestion.

Another tree grew peanuts in striped paper-bags, another pop-corn balls done up in red tissue paper. Another tree grew ice cream sodas with two straws in each, while still another tree bore boxes of cracker jack and glasses of pink lemonade.

On their way to the Cut-Out Lady's house, Nancy and Nick got hungry.

"What shall we have, Nick?" said Nancy. "An ice cream cone, a sundae, or a ball of pop-corn?"

"Pop-corn!" said Nick.

So he climbed the pop-corn tree and broke off two nice round red tissue-paper balls. The pop-corn was fresh and sticky and disappeared down two little red throats like magic.

"Now, I'm thirsty," said Nancy.

"Then we'll have some soda!" said Nick. Nancy took vanilla and Nick took raspberry—and that was that.

"Now I'm hungry again," said Nick.

"So'm I!" declared Nancy.

So they had a sundae apiece with 10 things on it.

And then, being thirsty again, they had some pop.

"Now let's go on!" said Nick.

"Yes, let's," said Nancy looking a little pale.

But what do you think? They had lost their way. The sign on the road pointed to Castor Land one way and to Plaster Land the other way. Wasn't it dreadful!

The Twins sat down to think what it would be best to do.
